JAP FLIERS KILL 2,000 CHINESE

Joined by Warships in Series of Attacks on Southern Metropolis.

RAIDS ON NANKING HALT

Bad Weather or Foreign Protests Believed Cause of Silence at Capital.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Sept. 23—Two thousand Chinese, most of them refugees, are estimated to have been killed or injured in two day's Japanese aerial bombardment of Canton, south China city.

The raids, today and yesterday, left weeping women and wailing children searching the ruins of densely-packed dwelling areas of the poorer classes.

Thousands roam the streets, bewildered and almost deranged with anguish and terror.

Japanese planes and warships joined in todays' bombardment of Canton and Haichow causing widespread damage.

Nanking Attack Halts

Nanking, earmarked by the Japanese for destruction as the seat of Chinese resistance, was not raided this morning, however, as the Japanese were apparently impressed by the seriousness of American, British, French and German protests against unrestricted bombardment of the civilian population.

Some observers, on the other hand, believed that Nanking's momentary safety from attack was due to the prevailing bad weather and poor visibility and both government and people prepared for an eventual onslaught.

Warplanes which yesterday bombed Canton five times returned to the attack in the early morning.

At 4 a. m. the heavy drone of warplanes signalled a short bombing and at 6 a. m. nine bombers carried out the most spectacular raid yet made on Canton. In flights of three, the squadron dropped over the city and in the face of a searing fire from anti-aircraft batteries loosed their projectiles and flew away unscathed.

Chinese defense planes rose to give battle and thousands gaped in the streets at the thrilling dog-

HUGHES AND CIRCUIT JUDGES SPEED CASES

May Recommend Naming of New Justices Where Congestion is Found.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes discussed today with senior judges of the circuit courts the status of litigation in federal courts and steps to speed up judicial procedure.

It was the first session of a three-day judicial conference held annually at the supreme court. The proceedings are secret, but the chief justice will issue a statement next week.

The conference usually recommends the appointment of additional judges in cities of the circuit and district courts where congestion is found.

Trio Arrested Here Try Jail Break At Toledo

Passerby Frustrates Escape Attempt of Auto Theft Suspects Taken from Marion Last Night; Window Bar Broken.

Three men who were taken from Marion county jail last night to federal district court at Toledo to face charges of violation of the Dyer act were frustrated by a passerby today when they attempted to escape from the federal prison, The Associated Press reported. The men had pulled out a cell window bar and were preparing to let themselves out when police were notified.

Reserves of the Toledo police department immediately rushed to the federal building and the men did not have time to leave the cell block on the third floor where they were confined.

The men are William Kinzek, 19, of West Aliquippa, Willam Lawson, 41, of Sunbury, and Joseph Marvin, 23, of Aliquippa, all in Pennsylvania.

They were removed from county jail here at about 10 o'clock last night by Deputy Marshal Edward Posse from federal court and another officer.

Separated Now

After their attempted escape this morning, they were handcuffed and placed in individual cells. The name of the passerby, who saw them at the window of the third-floor lavatory and notified police, was not learned. Deputy Marshal Posse was in the courtroom testifying when the attempt was made.

Marvin told authorities after the escape that he climbed out of the window, walked along a ledge high above the ground and intended to climb down a stone pillar but gave up the attempt as too dangerous and climbed back inside.

The men were arrested a week ago last night near the Marion Union Stockyards on West Center street by Corporal H. W. Sowers and Patrolman D. L. Callentine of the Marion sub-station of the state highway patrol. They received the call to investigate from Donald Weston of 375 Fahey street, night watchman at the yards, who said the men had been reluctant to talk and attempted to hide their faces when he approached their automobile.

The two patrolmen took the men to the patrol station for questioning and all three signed statements admitting participation in the theft of the automobile from Terre Haute, Ind., on which charge they were being held in federal prison. One of the men was armed when arrested.

Pennsylvania authorities, notified of the arrest, came here and identified Kinzek and Marvin as men wanted in connection with 12 breaking and entering cases, two armed robberies and two automobile thefts in Pennsylvania. Lawson was not wanted in Pennsylvania but was wanted in Indiana in connection with the theft of the automobile.

Patrolmen here said today they understood Kinzek and Marvin might still be returned to Pennsylvania to face the charges there, despite the reported Dyer act charges in Toledo. The Dyer act involved transporting a stolen automobile across a state line and is a federal offense.

Charges of auto theft have been filed against the trio in municipal court here by state patrolmen also. They had been held in county jail since their arrest, Wednesday a special investigator from the Toledo court was here to question the men about their automobile.

CALEDONIA CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO

Beverly Jean Smith, 3, in Critical Condition at Hospital After Accident.

Three-year old Beverly Jean Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Smith of Caledonia, is in critical condition at the City hospital as a result of being struck late yesterday afternoon by an automobile while running across the street in front of her home.

She is unconscious, suffering from a possible skull fracture, a broken right leg, severe shock, and numerous bruises and abrasions, the attending physician said. She was given oxygen for an hour after being admitted to the hospital.

According to witnesses, including Mrs. J. F. Cochran at whose home the child had been playing a moment before the accident, the driver of the car, Clarence Grimes of east of Caledonia, swerved and struck a tree in his attempt to avoid hitting the child. She was thrown a distance estimated at about 25 feet when the automobile hit her.

Mr. Grimes stopped immediately and took the child and her mother, who was watering flowers and had her back to the street when the accident occurred, to a physician's office in Caledonia and accompanied the physician and child to the hospital in Marion. Also in the Grimes car were the driver's father, Carl Grimes and Roland Timson. All three are employed in Marion and were returning home from work. The child's father, a former Caledonia grocer, now operates a store on Silver street, Marion.

PAROLE BOARD CONVICTS' LONE HOPE FOR LIBERTY

Prisoner's Conduct, His Life Before Conviction and Data Concerning Crime Are Reviewed Before He Is Released.

This is the first of a series of three stories describing the operation of the state parole board, which is now a center of state-wide interest as the result of an investigation into charges that prisoners have been released allegedly through the efforts of a "parole broker." Gov. Davey is reorganizing the board.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—The state parole board, which last year paroled 2,580 prisoners from the four penal institutions for adults, is the hope of thousands still imprisoned that they will be released at the expiration of minimum sentences.

When a prisoner enters Ohio penitentiary, London prison farm, Ohio State Reformatory for Women or the State Reformatory for Men, he automatically becomes eligible for parole at the expiration of the minimum sentence, less time off for good behavior.

The law provides that all prisoners in the four institutions are eligible for parole except those upon whom the death sentence has been passed, or those sentenced for treason. Those sentenced to life imprisonment become eligible at the end of 16 years, less time off for good behavior.

Before a prisoner appears before the board for a parole hearing, all information available is studied by board members. The information concerns the conduct of the prisoner while in the institution, his life before he committed a crime, and information concerning the crime.

The law also requires that notice of a parole hearing must be advertised at least three weeks before the hearing and that the judge who sentenced the prisoner and the county attorney who prosecuted him must be notified at least two weeks before the hearing.

The board also considers recommendations by the official in charge of the institution and others interested in the case.

Last year 1,563 prisoners were received at the Ohio penitentiary in Columbus, 338 were paroled. At the London Prison farm 969 were received and 779 paroled while at the Ohio State reformatory at Mansfield 969 were received and 1,326 were paroled and 67 were received at the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville and 190 were paroled.

If the parole board decides that a prisoner should not be paroled, his case is continued and a date for a future hearing is set. Parole board members have the sole power of setting such a hearing date.

Under no conditions has the parole board the power to order a prisoner to be retained in an institution after serving his maximum sentence. The law also provides that "a convict who has served his entire term without violation of the rules and discipline, shall be restored to the rights and privileges forfeited by his conviction."

The prisoner receives from the governor a certificate proving such restoration when he presents to the governor a certificate of good conduct which is provided by the wardes.

The parole board has no jurisdiction over prisoners in the girls' and boys' industrial schools. Inmates in these institutions are under direct charge of the department of public welfare.

The governor has the power to pardon a convict who is in danger of dying, commutes of [illegible]

MOTORIST ACCUSED OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

Newark Man Arrested Here After Car Hits Railway Crossing Signal.

Grover S. McFarland, 44, of Newark, was arrested for driving while intoxicated last night at 9:45 o'clock by highway patrolmen from the Marion sub-station after his car struck and damaged a railroad warning signal at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing, north of Marion on state routes 23 and 4. McFarland, patrolmen said, was southbound and struck the flasher signal on the west side of the highway.

The impact broke the flasher signal light and the car was damaged about the front end to the extent of $100, patrolmen reported. McFarland was brought to the city prison here and was being held for arraignment in municipal court.

Social Affairs

MRS. PAUL THOMAS of 131 Sargent street entertained with a bridge and personal shower last evening for the pleasure of her sister-in-law Miss Lillian Thomas, who will become the bride of Jack Danner, Saturday, Oct. 2. Pink and blue candles and bouquets of flowers in these colors predominated in the party appointments and carried out the bride-elect's wedding colors. Little Gloria Joyce Shealy, costumed in pink and blue, presented Miss Thomas with an original poem tied with pink and blue streamers, which directed her to her shower gifts. Bridge awards were won by Mrs. Ed. Tracy, Mrs. Carl Danner and Miss Cleo Danner.

Guests included Miss Thomas, Mrs. Earl E. Thomas, Mrs. Carl Danner, Mrs. Russell Dever, Mrs. John Gillis, Mrs. Lawrence Sager, Mrs. Grant Shealy, Mrs. Genevieve Cawlkins, Mrs. Ed. Tracy, Mrs. Clifford Swisher, Misses Betty Jacoby, Roscila Fletcher, Marguerite Van Atta, Mary Margaret Peters, Cleo Danner, Florence Wood, Jeannette Evans, Henrietta Filiatrault and Hazel Foster, and Gloria Joyce Shealy.

ONE of several attractive prenuptial social affairs complimenting Miss Marguerite Hill, a bride of next month, was the dinner and shower arranged by the teaching staff of the Oak Street school last evening at Ringer's Inn on the Prospect pike. Places were marked for Miss Hill, Mrs. Ann Sutherland, Misses Geneva Terry, Lottie Touchman, Sophia Mack, Alice Sneckenberger, Florence McColly, Margaret Schlientz, Otheola McClanathan, Jean Witt of Marion and Gretchen Worthing of Glen Falls, N. Y. Miss Hill was presented a gift. Her marriage to Harry W. McColly, which was announced recently, will take place Oct. 2. She is a former teacher at the Oak Street school.

The Congenial Stitchers club met at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Davis five miles west of Marion yesterday afternoon. Contest honors were won by Mrs. Marie Grate, Miss Dorothy Bender and Mrs. Lucille Watkins. Mrs. Floyd Fate won the guessing box award. Guests were Mrs. Harvey McCombs, Miss Peggy Grate and Wayne Watkins. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. Fate at 650 Uncapher avenue.

Mrs. Frank Phillips was enrolled in the Ladies' Aid society of the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church at a meeting Tuesday evening with Mrs. W. P. Converse of Dix avenue. Miss Virginia O'Dowd, a guest, and Mrs. E. P. Riley gave readings. Mrs. J. A. Carriker conducted devotions. Arrangements were completed for a cafeteria supper tonight at the church. Mrs. Converse won contest honors in a social hour. A meeting will be held Oct. 5 with Mrs. Roxie Whysell of East Center street.

Rev. and Mrs. Stanley W. Wiant and Mrs. Della Davis were guests when the Women's Bible class of Wesley M. E. church met Tuesday evening with Mrs. John Monk of Leader street. Mrs. A. W. Leonhardt, president, was in charge of the meeting, which opened with devotions by Mrs. Fred Upton. Following songs by the class readings were given by Mrs. Nora Mayberry, Mrs. Cora Daynaude, Mrs. Minnie Fetter, Mrs. Della Everly and Mrs. Ida Orr. Mrs. Leonhardt and Mrs. Pearl McCrery sang a duet. Lunch was served in a social hour. The class will meet Oct. 19 with Mrs. R. G. Smallwood of Avondale avenue.

Contest awards were won by Mrs. Ida Wise and Mrs. Hannah Severns when Mrs. Ethel Richards of North Seffner avenue entertained the H. and T. club yesterday afternoon. A part of the time was spent in sewing. Lunch was served. In two weeks the club will meet with Mrs. Mary Brown of North State street.

A paper on "Common Sense and Children," read by Mrs. C. K. Kneisley, was discussed by the Mothers' Educational club at a meeting last evening with Mrs. Robert Scott of Windsor street. Helpful household hints and menus were given in response to roll call. Mrs. John Pinnert won a mystery box and high honors in a contest. Mrs. Robert Caulfield was consoled. Lunch was served by the hostess. A meeting will be held Oct. 6 with Mrs. Kneisley of South High street.

A social hour followed a short business session at a meeting of the Woman's Relief corps Tuesday afternoon in the Legion dugout. Nineteen members responded to roll call. The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Roy Watson, who acted as chairman in the absence of Mrs. Grace Hoberman. At the preceding meeting the charter was draped for Mrs. Anna Morrow. It was announced, Mrs. Clara Harden and her group will be in charge of a social hour following the next meeting Oct. 5.

First meeting of the Del-Mar-Va club this season was held last evening at the home of Mrs. John Guthrie on Merkle avenue. A short business session was followed by bunco, in which Mrs. Clifford Frey won honors. Mrs. Marion Cole was consoled. The hostess served refreshments. Miss Ethyleen Bonecutter of Pearl street will entertain the club Oct. 6.

Mrs. Bernice Sekinger, Miss Rachel Callahan and Mrs. Grace Sidenstricker were enrolled in the Senior World Wide guild of Trinity Baptist church at a meeting Tuesday evening with Mrs. George Barnhart of Lincoln avenue. Miss Mary Catherine Byers opened the meeting. Mrs. Mildred Wills, president, was in charge of a business session which preceded devotions led by Miss Cornelda Yazel. Book reports were made by Miss Myers and Mrs. Glenn Patten. Miss Yazel was installed as vice president and Mrs. Patten as reporter. After an evening of sewing a contest was conducted, honors going to Miss Yazel. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by her mother, Mrs. Ralph Wingett. The October meeting will be held with Mrs. Richard Maxim of Superior street.

L. S. D. club members and their husbands held a wiener roast at the Blow Inn camp west of Marion on Harding Highway last night. Games and dancing provided entertainment. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Jones, Mr. and Mrs. John Leibenderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ruhl, Mrs. George Wingett, Mrs. Cyril Blow, Misses Connie Butterworth, Imogene Metz, Glenna Walker, Jean Snyder, Otis Somerlot, Richard Minshall, John Hartman and Jimmy Sens. Miss Snyder will entertain the group at her home on Pennsylvania avenue Sept. 29.

Young women of the S. S. Kresge Co. 10-25 cent store gave a party last evening at the home of Miss Mildred Kenyon on Blaine avenue, honoring two recent brides, Mrs. Lawrence Shaffer, who was formerly Miss Lena Mohat, and Mrs. Lester Miller, the former Miss Alice Kenyon, and Mrs. LeRoy Wick who is leaving the store's employ. They were led to shower gifts by following streamers falling from a large umbrella suspended in an archway. Mrs. Wick, Miss Gertrude Snider and Miss Florence Rengert won contest honors. Corsages were favors. Others present were Mrs. Charles Augenstein, Mrs. Fred White, Mrs. Woodrow Frost, Mrs. Esther Knickle and Misses Lucille Linskill, Hazel Yeager, Berdine Rinnert, Verna Babcock, Bernice Smith, Idola Ansley, Merlin Collins, Naomi Ansley, Pauline Kidd, Edith Goldsberry, Jean Burns and Elizabeth Benge of Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Viola Lingo won the lone hand award and Mrs. Mary Maloney the award for high score in euchre when the Wide Awake club members met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Clara Sipe of Delaware. Four tables were filled for cards. Mrs. Anna Stauffer and Mrs. Helen McElfresh won second and third honors. A meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. McElfresh of Delaware.

Mrs. Katherine Martin and Wilbur Farley of Marion were united in marriage Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church manse on East Church street. Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor read the single ring service in the presence of Mr. Farley's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Farley. Mr. and Mrs. Farley are at home at 127 Shapless court.

Personal Mention

Harry H. Hedges of Houston, Texas, former Marion resident, stopped for a brief call in Marion yesterday while enroute to Geneva and Youngstown for visits with relatives. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hedges, a former resident of Geneva. They expect to return for a more extended visit with friends here next week.

Miss Marjorie Lewis of South Vine street left yesterday for Columbus where she is enrolled as a freshman in Ohio State university.

Mrs. Melvina Summers Keeler and daughter Marjorie have returned to their home at Brewster-on-Cape-Cod, Mass., after visiting Mrs. Keeler's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hinklin of West Walnut street. Mrs. Keeler, formerly a music teacher in Marion, is head of the music department at Sea Pines school at Brewester and this summer was one of the music counselors at the school's summer camp. Her daughter, who attends kindergarten at the school, was a member of the junior school during the camp period.

PICKS CAPITOL

Mrs. Charles Eldon Cleverly, 23, threatened to make the Idaho state house at Boise the birthplace of her first baby unless the state paroles her 20-year-old husband, serving a 1 to 14 year term for assaulting a woman. She said she expected a child within a month.

Green Camp Pastor and Bride Return from Honeymoon

REV. WILLIAM HALLBAUER, pastor of the Green Camp Baptist church, and his bride, the former Miss Emily Louise VanWinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson VanWinkle Sr. of North Plainfield, N. J., have returned from a wedding trip to Atlantic City and other seashore points and are at home at the church parsonage in Green Camp.

Their marriage took place Sept. 14 at the First-Park Baptist church in North Plainfield with the pastor, Rev. Henry L. Bell, officiating. Palms, ferns and white gladioli decorated the church and the parish house where the reception was held following the ceremony was decorated with baskets of fall flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess style white lace redingote over white satin, a tulle veil and coronet of Belgium handmade lace, and carried a bouquet of bridal rose and gypsophila. The maid of honor, Miss Joanna Hoff, was in a yellow lace redingote over satin and wore a wreath of Talisman roses, fastened with rhinestone clips. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses and gypsophila.

Edward Kurzenberger of Philadelphia was the best man and Nelson VanWinkle Jr., brother of the bride, Herbert Hallbauer of Philadelphia, nephew of the bridegroom and James Davis of Minersville, Pa., were ushers. Dr. Robert Barnes of New Plainfield was the organist and Miss Catherine Glass of Concord, N. H., classmate of the bride at Baptist Institute, was the vocalist.

Mrs. Hallbauer is a graduate of North Plainfield High school Cooper Union in New York City and Baptist Institute in Philadelphia. In North Plainfield she was a member of the First-Park church and Lydia Chapter No. 41, Order of Eastern Star.

Rev. Hallbauer, son of Mrs. Christine Hallbauer of Philadelphia, is a graduate of Central High school in Philadelphia, Bucknell university where he was an honorary member of Phi Alpha and Sigma Tau Delta fraternities and received his B. A. degree. He received his B. D. degree from Crozer Theological seminary.

"A hole in the center of the cake."

Yes, something really new and good too! Cake mascara in a form that stays dainty and ladylike until all used up. Can't possibly become messy because it's hidden inside the sparkling metal case. And it has a totally new kind of brush that goes between the lashes . . . applies the mascara to the sides of the lashes as well as to their bottom surfaces . . . thus making lashes appear more luxuriant . . . ever more stunning than ever before. And what a mascara this is! Newly smooth . . . delightfully fine in texture . . . much faster drying . . . actually curls the lashes . . . really tear-proof, non-smarting, utterly harmless. A cold that affects the hearing is usually quite severe in character, and is usually so discomforting to the sufferer that everything possible is done to get rid of it. However, the fact that the cause is in the spine and that the quickest possible relief is usually to be had from chiropractic spinal adjustments is not generally known. Adjustments restore the full tide of nerve impulses and nature soon clears the trouble.

The dark ships

Neill, a young reporter, finds his beloved uncle and President Fanning shot dead, locked in the cabin of Fanning's yacht at Baltimore Harbor, Md. Neill hides nearby in a disused lifeboat. He sees Mark Bonniger, local publicist, about the flashy swindler Janet to find out who did it. He suspects queer little Janet, who hated Fanning, and his ex-bodyguard, Ira Loker. He distrusts Kettering, sent down from Baltimore to the yacht to ransack and other questions Blackie, who Neill's connection with Fan-

"What did you talk about?"

"Good Lord, Mark! What do men talk about when they're drinking? We just made a noise. I was with him until I went to bed."

Bonniger said avoiding Neill's eye, called a constable and told him to see if he could find Eyster To give Eyster time enough to get around to the front Neill detained the constable by giving him a detailed description of the man

While they waited, Bonniger and

Neill dropped in a chair to dope things out.

Neill discussed other aspects of the case The old friendly feeling had gone.

Eyster sidled into the room with his insinuating grin 'You want me, Mr. Bonniger'

"Sit down," said Bonniger "How long have you been in Absalom's?"

"Since noon on Tuesday.'

"How did you come here?"

"By taxicab from Baltimore." He went on to tell the same tale he had related to Neill

"Can you give me the name of the driver or his license number or the name of the cab company?"

"Impossible, Mr. Bonniger. I never noticed.'

What have you been doing since you got here?

"Just tapering off. Ain't touched a drop in two days now.'

Bonniger indicated Neill 'When did you first meet Mr Wheatley?'

'He come on the bus Tuesday evening We got talking later and I asked him up to my room to crack the last bottle. We sat there drinking and chinning until this lad fell asleep in his chair. He couldn't take it. So I finished the bottle and then I woke him up and put him in his own bed

Neill thought grimly This guy is a better liar than I am

'What time was this?"

'Something after 2 a0"

"All right. Much obliged"

Eyster went out with his head over his shoulder and his eyes darting inquisitively from face to face He wanted to hear more.

Bonniger rose and flung his pencil on his desk. "Let's go to bed," he said Neill perceived that Eyster had overdone it. He was too obviously the glib and ready liar

Watchers In the Night

Tired as he was, it was impossible for Neill to sleep He dropped in a chair to dope things out. It was clear that Bonniger did not intend to let the situation ride. His suspicions were thoroughly aroused Morning was sure to bring a showdown

Well, there was only one way to meet a showdown and that was to anticipate it. He and Janet must make a break to get away. Capture was almost certain. Nevertheless they must risk it.

As soon as he had come to this conclusion, Neill felt better He set to work to gather together his few belongings

Ten minutes later he started down the stairs It was past 2 o'clock and the excitement had subsided Nothing was to be heard except snores in various keys tell if the door was being watched coming through the flimsy doors as he passed. No lights were on

It was not customary to lock the hotel doors at night. Neill passed inside the front door to take a prospect before venturing out. Across the road there was a filling station under a canopy and a street light overhead. Neill studied the gasoline pumps. It was a natural hiding place. Sure enough, while he watched a head stuck out. It bore the cap of a state constable.

Neill felt his way softly back through the long dining room and through the swing door into the kitchen. The kitchen had windows on three sides He looked through first one then another. There were so many hiding-places outside—sheds, fences—it was impossible to Neill tried the expedient of rattling the door handle Instantly the top of a head appeared around the corner of a shed.

He went back upstairs with a hard grin The decision had been taken out of his hands What must come, must come.

Buckless' alibi is proved, Neill's shaken, tomorrow.

WHAT WOMEN DON'T TELL.

It's so hard for an outsider to know whether the husband is the villain or the hero in the average modern divorce

Kisses are like after-dinner speeches, to the average man, always most interesting when they are impromptu not too long and not too serious

Woman's vanity and man's love of amusement have done more than anything else to keep money in circulation, if you can judge by the number of beauty parlors, golf clubs, automobiles and night clubs —all still running on high

The new fall styles, says a cynic, are guaranteed to afford a girl lots of pleasure, just thinking how much worse some other girl's legs look in the short skirts than hers do

It seems almost as hard these days to marry a husband as it is to get rid of a bad dime Somebody is always digging him up and pinning him on you

In spite of all the "new morality," the path of virtue does not always lead to a spinster's grave. Just as many nice girls get married today as ever.

A woman may forget who discovered radium, who found the South pole and at which end to sign a check—but she never forgets a tribute to her charms or a blow to her vanity.

Marriage is like the motorcar. Somebody is always putting new, up-to-date improvements on it—but nobody has yet discovered anything that will make it foolproof.

The average girl would like to think of herself as every man's "dream" and every other woman's insomnia.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor.

NEW YORK—Once the world believed that aristocrats had blue blood But even the most liberal thinkers today do not realize how far in the opposite direction investigation has carried science

Many scientists know that chemical analysis of blood and of the green coloring matter of plants has all but definitely proved that the plants' green and the animals' red blood had a common origin

It is harder to imagine how plants have any connection with living nerves. But one link has just been shown by M. N. Ragozina, laboratory of experimental biology, Institute of experimental medicine, Moscow. He reports it in the British scientific journal, Nature.

He took an embryonic salamander before its tissues had been begun to develop nerves or any other special organs. Ground-up plant tissues were implanted into the tiny animal embryo.

The plant substances caused formation of the "neural plate," the beginning of the animal's nervous system The best results came from use of cambium, a tender tissue of growing stalks.

The "unity of plant and animal tissues" thus is shown, says Ragozina.

MARION EAGLES TO ATTEND STATE PICNIC

Arrangements for Trip Made at Meeting: 90 Expected To Be in Delegation.

Arrangements were completed at a regular meeting of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, Fraternal Order Eagles last night, for participation in a statewide picnic at the state fairgrounds in Columbus, Sunday, Oct. 3. The Marion delegation is expected to be composed of approximately 90 members who will travel in a chartered bus or special train.

Eligibility to attend rests on having secured at least one new member before the end of this month. The Marion lodge, for which a quota of 120 new members has been set for the year from June 1 to June 1, has obtained 145 new members since June 1, 1937, and is planning to double the increase before Dec. 1, officials said.

At the meeting last night, eight applications for membership were received and four candidates initiated.

It was announced the initiation for District No. 14 which includes Marion, Carey, Bucyrus, Kenton, and Upper Sandusky will be held here on Oct. 10. A district meeting to complete arrangements for the district initiation will be held here Sept. 29.

SPEEDING CLEVELAND JAIL BREAKERS RUN DOWN WOMAN

Three accused bank robbers and an alleged slayer who fled the Cuyahoga county jail yesterday commandeered a motor car and sped down Cleveland's busy Superior avenue toward public square. Their car, traveling 50 to 60 miles an hour, struck down Mrs. Paul Tober, 48, flinging her against a safety zone stanchion. Here a woman spectator consoles her, a minute after the accident, before the ambulance arrives. (Associated Press Photo.)

Delaware Given Even Break For Friday Tilt Here

TIFFIN DELAYS TILT WITH ST. MARY GRID TEAM TILL SATURDAY

Irish Get Extra Day for Practice for Official Opening Game.

St. Mary gridders will have an extra practice session to prepare for their invasion of the Tiffin Calvert field, with the announcement this morning that the game time has been changed from Friday to Saturday afternoon. A conflict in the use of the playing field at Tiffin, resulted in the change of schedule, Robert Kelly, St. Mary mentor, was informed by a communication from Calvert officials.

The Saturday game will start at 2.30 o'clock and the team will leave here in private automobiles at noon, in order to be on the field ahead of the starting gun. Last night the Irish gridmen went through a fast workout on the Silk Mill practice field, and except for an injury to Nicholas Cafegno, the team was intact at the close of the scrimmage session.

Cafegno, who started at the right halfback position in the practice game a week ago at LaRue, is suffering an injury to his right ankle It is not likely that he will start against Tiffin Calvert, Saturday, and the injury may keep him from the entire game. Several youths are vying for the task of stepping into Cafegno's shoes for the Saturday game. Ray Robbins, Ted Schuler and Jack McAndrew, appear as the most likely choices for the position

The St. Mary squad will have a long workout tonight and a drill session tomorrow night, to wind up their pre-game activity. The Saturday encounter at Tiffin Calvert will mark the official opening of the St. Mary schedule. The team already participated in one contest, a practice game at LaRue last week in which the teams battled to a 6-6 tie.

SHAKE-UP LOOMING IN MARION ELEVEN FOR NIGHT BATTLE

Will Be Harding's Last Home Game Until Oct. 8 With Lima South.

A question mark of no small proportion hangs over the heads of Harding High school gridders today, as they await their final practice session before engaging Delaware Willis High's team in the second combat of the season, a floodlight contest at Harding stadium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. On the outcome of the contest hinges the answer—whether Harding this year will be able to boast of a successful football combination.

The Harding gridders went through a long workout last night, most of which was under the artificial lights. Tonight the team will have a short warm-up drill session and following a 24-hour rest will clash with the invading Senators, who last year held Harding to a scoreless tie in the season's opener at Delaware The game will be called promptly at 8 o'clock and it will be Hardings last appearance on the home field until Lima South comes here Oct 8

Shake-Up Expected

The question mark looming on the Harding grid horizon, involves several things, all of prime importance to the team, officials and the host of followers. Marion's starting line-up for the Delaware game, was very much in doubt this morning, but close followers of the club are almost willing to wager that it won't be recognizable as the same aggregation that started against Mt. Gilead last week. From the varsity club of some 40 candidates, Head Coach Carl Cramer is expected to select a squad which will be considerably different from the first-stringers who received the starting call last week.

Harding tomorrow night will face Delaware Willis on no better than even terms, a condition which didn't exist when the Presidents were highly favored to score an easy win over Mt. Gilead That condition, sometimes a healthful one, should restrain the Presidents from being too much on edge before game time. They may realize they are going into the conflict with an even break, that followers won't be expecting anything flashy, and that a well-directed offense will bring them the victory rabid fans have been clamoring for.

Delaware Has Veterans

The Senators, according to advance reports, will bring a complete veteran line here tomorrow night. The backfield has but one veteran, in Halfback Burch, but the other three have developed much more speed than the backfield of last year. A week ago, Willis slapped a 20 to 2 defeat on Worthington, the safety being scored against Delaware's second stringers. The probable starting line-up, which will oppose Marion, is Wyss and Evans, ends, Ladd and Mendenhall, tackles; Bell and Beaman, guards, Heineman, center, Hall and Burch, halfbacks Watkins quarterback, and Scott, fullback.

Marion's schedule will get considerably tougher as it progresses, with the team wading into the North Central Ohio league competition Oct. 22 and playing through the five circuit games on successive weeks. Next week the Cramermen are booked for a Saturday afternoon game at Upper Sandusky and will entertain the Lima South aggregation in a floodlight encounter the following Friday night. Findlay will come here Oct. 15, and the following week Marion will travel to Ashland for the first conference game.

FOUR HATFIELDS TO BUCK LARUE FRIDAY

MECHANICSBURG, O., Sept. 23 - Two players by the same name on a football team often give radio announcers and sports writers need to be careful, but the four Hatfields on the Mechanicsburg team really give them a headache. The Hatfields will oppose LaRue gridders Friday.

The four pictured above are Richard, Donald, Bill and Orlie Hatfield and they all play on Coach W. K. Dunton's four time winner of the Heart of Ohio league team at Mechanicsburg. Dick and Donald are backs, and Orlie and Bill are guards.

Sutherland Dubious of Hopes of Pitt Panthers

BY JOHNSON BAILEY
By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept 23—Jock Sutherland, the silent Scot, will talk plenty now—about anything except the strength of his Pitt football team.

Most of the teams the Panthers play this fall will be stronger than last year, while Pitt not only lost three regulars and half a dozen reserves, but had the weakest freshman team in years

And that 21-0 Rose Bowl victory—Oh, what an anchor it will be to carry through the season.

"Football games are won on incentive," declared Jock. "I like to be the underdog I like every game to be something for my team to shoot at. This year every opponent will be spurred on by our winning in the Rose Bowl

"Few football teams remain at the same strength from one year to another Most of our opponents are stronger Fordham is reported to have more offensive power. Duke is being called the best in the south. Notre Dame , Nebraska," he went down the line.

"We lost Averill Daniel, an All-America tackle, Bill Glassford, as good a guard as there was in the country, and Bobby Larue, a fine back and one of the key men of our team. You can't help missing men like those and we lost some valuable reserves.

"We were fortunate last year We'll probably have to pay for some of our good luck."

Returning to his first theme, Jock finally admitted, "Now if I have the proper incentive for my boys, other things being equal, we'll win our share of the games"

As a matter of record Pitt has six letter men at ends, four at guards, three at tackles, two at center and seven in the backfield.

This group is overflowing with last year's sophomore sensations—such as Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, who gained approximately 1,000 yards in 150 tries and Bill Daddio, greatest end prospect in years

Paul Shaw, a regular end two years ago and out all last season with a leg injury, is back to pair with Daddio. George Delich probably will fill Daniell's vacancy at left tackle with Tony Matisi on the right side Walter Raskowski will be at guard with Steve Petro, who started for the first time in the Rose Bowl Another Rose Bowl star, Don Hensley now has the call at center over Henry Adams, year's regular.

Harold Stebbins, who scored Pitt's winning touchdown against Ohio State last season, will pair with Goldberg at the halfbacks and Sutherland probably will alternate two men at the quarterback and fullback posts again. Johnny Chickerneo and John Michelosen are battling for the former and Bill Stapulis and Frank Patrick for the latter.

Since Sutherland came to Pitt, the Panthers have lost only 18 games in 13 years and since 1924 have lost only twice in November.

The fourth game for the last four years—Minnesota in 1933 and 1934; Notre Dame in 1935 and Duquesne in 1936—has kept Pitt from an undefeated season. Will that be an "incentive" to end a two-year series of scoreless ties with Fordham? Answer October 16

Schedule: Sept. 25, Ohio Wesleyan; Oct. 2, West Virginia at Morgantown; Oct. 9, Duquesne; Oct. 16, Fordham at New York. Oct. 23, Wisconsin; Oct. 30, Carnegie Tech; Nov. 6, Notre Dame at Notre Dame; Oct. 13 Nebraska; Nov. 20, Penn State; Nov. 27, Duke at Durham.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press

CLIFF MELTON and JOHNNY McCARTHY, Giants—Former shut out Cubs 6-0 on six hits and did not walk a man; McCarthy drove in two runs and got four singles in five trips to plate

MONTE PEARSON and KEMP WICKER, Yankees—Each pitched and won seven-hitter against Browns Pearson taking opener, 4-1 and Wicker the night-cap, 11-0

RUDY YORK, Tigers—His 23rd home run, with two on base provided winning margin in 6-4 defeat of Red Sox

SI JOHNSON, Cardinals—Nicked for 10 hits by Dodgers but bore down with men on base to win, 1-2

LUKE SEWELL, White Sox — Drove in three runs in 9-3 victory over Athletics

JIMMY DESHONG, Senators — Scattered nine Indian hits all singles and checked eighth-inning rally to give Washington 6-4 decision.

VINCE DI MAGGIO, Bees — His single drove home winning run in 3-2 10-inning defeat of Pirates

DOLPH CAMILLI, Phillies — Tripled in ninth and brought in run that whipped Reds 3-2

UPPER SANDUSKY 11 TO PLAY FOSTORIA

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 23—Coach Robert Hutton's eleven will clash with Fostoria St. Wendelin High at Fostoria Friday night in their first game in eight years under the lights. With a win over Mt. Blanchard to the credit, the black-shirted Oneidas who invade the Marion Harding camp the following week, are expected to score their second victory of the season, since the Saints lost their first game last week to Fostoria High by a tally of 45 to 0 This week's game will also be the first League of Six Nations game of the season for both teams. The local team is centered about only three veterans, Don Iles, tackle, Bill Bauer, quarter, and Wilbur Zimmerman, but the newcomers are showing unexpected strength.

GIANTS BLANK CUBS, 6-0 TO BOOST LEAD IN FIGHT FOR TITLE

Schumacher To Oppose Davis Today; Yanks Need One Game for Title.

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was Hal Schumacher against Curt Davis today as the Giants and the Cubs went into the grand finale of their super de luxe, pennant-or-nothing series at Wrigley field. But from the Giants' side of the fence, at least half of the battle is won.

When Cliff Melton put his six-hit damper on the Bruins yesterday to squelch them, 6-0, it jacked the Terrymen's lead back to two and a half games So, even if the Cubs should belt Schumacher out of the box this afternoon, as they have on three previous occasions, the Giants still will go home on top of the pack by a game and a half.

Then there'll be only the Dodgers, Phils and Bees left to subdue—clubs which, from past experience, the Giants know aren't as tough to take as the Cubs

Not that the Cubs were so tough yesterday Melton, the lanky, gangling first-year varsity man who ranks second only to Hubbell on Bill Terry's staff, attended to that

It was Melton's eighteenth win of the year and one of his best. Behind him the resourceful Giants, with right fielder Mel Ott still nolding down third base and former third baseman Lou Chiozza playing center field, put on a demonstration of snappy fielding that caught two Cubs' trying to make singles do the work of doubles and in general served as a proper setting for the Melton gem

Cannon-ball Cliff's performance should bolster Schumacher's morale for today's task. Until yesterday, the second-string Giant southpaw had had no more success against Chicago than the first-string Giant right-hander.

While the Giants pulled themselves back from the danger of sliding into second place, the Yankees moved within one game of cinching their second straight American league title. Monte Pearson's 4-1 and Kemp Wicker's 11-0 trimmings of the Browns, yesterday despite the fact Detroit also won, left the Yanks needing only one more victory or one Tiger defeat to make the pennant a certainty.

Outside of the Giants' one-sided triumph the National league went in for tight ball games. The Bees upset the Pirates, 3-2 in ten innings behind another good job by Milt Shoffner, and the Phillies consigned the Reds to the cellar and moved out themselves by winning, 3-2 The Cardinals made it eight straight defeats for Brooklyn, this time by a 4-2 count.

The Tigers, whipped the Red Sox, 6-4, as Rudy York connected for the circuit the second day in a row; the White Sox concentrated their scoring in two innings to rout the Athletics, 9-3, and Jimmy Deshong held off an eighth-inning rally by the Indians to give Washington a 6-4 decision.

Marion County's Lone Rural Gridders To Open Play Friday

LaRue High school's football club, the only one representing a Marion county high school, will break into its official season by traveling to Mechanicsburg Friday night, to engage in a Heart of Ohio league tilt. LaRue faced St. Mary Parochial High last week in a practice game which ended in a 6-6 tie.

According to reports from the Champaign county school the Marion county club is one of the most feared league opponents this season, having been the only circuit member to upset Mechanicsburg during the reign of Coach Dunton Dunton has been at the helm of the Mechanicsburg team since 1933, and LaRue defeated his team 20 to 7, in the first encounter of that season.

Last season in LaRue's invasion of the same field, the Marion county club presented a stubborn defense that fell only after an attack of long passes and powerful plunges As a special feature of the game the new organized fife, drum and bugle corps of Mechanicsburg High will parade between halves. Officials for the game are James McMath and E. E Page of Columbus and David Carter of Springfield

The Mechanicsburg team in the opening of the season last week engaged in a unique three-school contest with Granville and Bradford gridders furnishing the opposition

OHIO ELEVENS PREPARE FOR 21 OPENING GAMES

By The Associated Press

Special notice for downtown citizens:

Polish up your guns. Ohio's college football campaign (and open season on the coaches) is here.

The mentors tapered their grid machines off from heavy workouts to nearly 20 fronts today for a hard week-end campaign.

For nearly all the Buckeye state colleges, the five Friday night and 16 Saturday contests represent the opener of the 1937 drive.

Ohio university, one of the four teams which stole a march by starting a week earlier than the pack, is a point of gloom.

Coach Don Peden said his ace running back, Johnny Chernaski, won't be able to make the trip to play Illinois at Champaign Saturday because of a knee injury. The running attack therefore will center on Len Janik, the Cleveland back who scored two touchdowns against Rio Grande.

Believing the air holds the best chance of turning in an upset over the Big Ten team, Peden polished yesterday the snappy passing attack which worked so well against the small Manchester, O., eleven.

Coach Russ Cohen had to shift his University of Cincinnati backfield for Western Reserve's invasion. Don Garvin's sprained ankle made it necessary to send Babe Schaps to his place.

There was no more scrimmage at Ohio State since Francis Schmidt, with the Texas Christian game looming Saturday, didn't want to take any chances of injuring more first stringers.

Schmidt's veteran right tackle, Charles (Pete) Gales, was back in uniform but won't be used unless needed. Gales has an injured knee.

One team which had no immediate worries was John Carroll. The blue streaks have been concentrating on passes and Tom Conley thinks there'll be a half-dozen sophomores on the firing line.

Four Titles To Be Decided in Fight Carnival

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—Eight of the grandest little fighting men on earth will dance and fiddle for the czar and his court under the dazzling arc lights of the Polo Grounds tonight.

They'll play fiddles with lefts, rights and uppercuts on Promoter Mike Jacobs' "Carnival of Champions" and, if the press agents aren't kidding, a crowd of 40,000 or upwards will pay more than $300,000 to watch four titleholders fight to keep their crowns.

This is the all-star lineup, all matches 15 rounds to a decision if not satisfaction:

Marcel Thil, the bald-headed man from France who holds the European but not the world's middleweight championship, vs. Fred Apostoli, an ex-San Francisco bellhop with a good wallop and not much style.

Barney Ross, smart king of the welterweights from Chicago, vs. Ceferino Garcia, the dangerous little Filipino with the celebrated "bolo punch."

Lou Ambers, lightweight champion from Herkimer, N. Y., who fights hard only when his crown is at stake, vs. Pedro Montanez, a real punching whirlwind from Puerto Rico, who is no slouch.

Sixto Escobar, king of the bantamweights and also from Puerto Rico, vs. Baltimore's Harry Jeffra, who has been accusing his rival of ducking him for two years.

Broadway's smart money, which often finds its final resting place in some "sucker's" hip pocket, is riding with Ross, Apostoli, Ambers and Escobar.

RED BIRDS TWO UP ON BREWERS IN A. A. PLAYOFF CONTESTS

Columbus Journeys to Milwaukee for Final Games for Series Chance.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—The American association champion Columbus Red Birds had traveled the easier half of the road today to a Shaughnessy playoff championship.

Taking their second game last night, 3 to 2, left them two up and two to go on Milwaukee but they needed another victory tonight before feeling confident of the final series.

With four won games required to place either team in the Little World Series with the International league winner, the scene shifts Friday to Milwaukee where the Brewers have a decided edge on the Red Birds on the basis of the season's record against each other. In taking the first two games, the Birds ran true to seasonal form in their home park against the Brewers.

Pitching selections for tonight were uncertain. Ekner Max Lanier or Max Macon was slated to start for Columbus and either George Blaeholder or Ralph Winegarner for Milwaukee.

Abe Red Birds started their second win by pushing across three runs in the first inning before Forrest Pressnell warmed up. Pressnell hit Slaughter with a pitched ball when one was out, Rizzo singled, Siebert doubled and Stein hit a long drive for the scores.

Are Sports Bad For Beauty?

SONJA LOOKED LIKE THIS 7 YEARS AGO AS AMATEUR FANCY SKATING QUEEN!
ELEANOR HOLM MADE GOOD IN SHOW BUSINESS
SONJA HENIE—
THE MOVIES PRETTIED HER UP LIKE THIS AND MADE HER A STAR..
ALICE MARBLE HAS A GOOD VOICE! MAY GO ON THE SCREEN OR RADIO..
—HELEN WILLS HAS BEEN SIGNED BY 20TH CENTURY-FOX...

Some learned professors insist that strenuous sports is bad for feminine beauty, but the facts are against this theory.

Sonja Henie, once the queen of all the fancy skaters, is one feminine sport celebrity who has really made good on the screen. Sonja's first picture wowed 'em, and in her second opus, "Thin Ice," she keeps up the good work.

Eleanor Holm, some times called the prettiest of all women athletes, never made much headway in the movies, but she is a hit in vaudeville and night clubs. Eleanor sings pretty well, and at present is one of the stars of Billy Rose's Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland.

Helen Wills is another sport beauty who is easy on the eyes. Helen recently was given a screen test and it is said that she has been signed by Zanuck for 20th Century-Fox.

Tennis has also produced such delovelies as blonde Alice Marble and Kutey Kay Stammers, both of whom would cause plenty of headturning in any crowd.

BIG FOUR AND ERIE SCHEDULES CHANGED

Annual Revision for Winter Season To Become Effective Sunday.

Several changes effective at 12:01 a. m. Sunday in the schedules of Big Four and Erie passenger trains stopping in Marion were announced today by railroad agents here. The changes are made annually for the winter season in connection with the change from daylight savings time, they said.

The new daily leaving times of the Big Four trains with the old times in parentheses follow:

Westbound—No. 7 at 2:50 a. m. (2:45 a. m.); No. 39 at 4:58 a. m. (4:28 a. m.); No. 23 at 8:15 a. m. flagged here to pick up Bucyrus passengers and to let off passengers (8:20 a. m.); No. 3 at 2:37 p. m., no change; No. 31 at 8:50 p. m., no change; No. 27 at 11:48 p. m., no change.

Eastbound—No. 20 at 3:45 a. m., no change; No. 46 at 9:30 a. m., no change; No. 34 at 12:45 p. m., no change; No. 6 at 5:04 p. m. due at Cleveland at 7:10 p. m. (formerly No. 4 at 3:24 p. m.); No. 24 at 9:30 p. m., no change.

The changes in the Erie schedule follow:

Westbound—No 1 at 3:27 a. m. (3:20 a. m.); No. 7 at 8:15 p. m. (7:56 p. m.).

Eastbound—No. 8 at 4:34 a. m. (4:39 a. m.); No. 2 at 12:58 a. m. (12:53 a. m.).

The Chesapeake & Ohio schedule is unchanged.

SUKKOS SERVICES SET FOR TONIGHT

Sukkos, the feast of the tabernacles, will be observed by the Marion Congregation of Israel in a service tonight at 7:30 in the temple room in the Marion National bank building.

The service will be read by George G. Kleinmaier and will be followed by a congregational meeting at which officers will be elected. Women of the congregation will serve refreshments.

Sukkos is one of the three great "pilgrim festivals" of ancient times. With the Passover and the Feast of Weeks it was the occasion for a visit to the Temple in Jerusalem and participation in the service of thanksgiving to God. This character of gratitude for God's providence is central in the observance of the holiday in modern times.

Alvin Martin Christian, 6-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon E. Christian of 450 Bartram avenue, died yesterday at 5:20 p. m. at the home after a six weeks' illness of summer influenza. The baby was born in Marion on March 3.

Mrs. Christian was formerly Miss Mabel D. Simpson of Colorado. Also surviving is a brother, Harmon Jr., at home. The funeral will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. at the W. C. Boyd funeral home on West Columbia street by Rev. J. Howard Berridge. Burial will be made in Forest Glen Memorial park. The body may be viewed at 200 Cass avenue until 1 p. m. Saturday, when it will be taken to the funeral home.

LEGION CALLS FOR BIGGER ARMED FORCE

poured out of the city by thousands as the 1,828 official delegates—a handful of the 500,000 Legionnaires and visitors drawn by the convention—gathered in the Metropolitan Opera house to wind up Legion business.

Indications were the Legion, pledged to political non-partisanship would avoid taking stands on such controversial issues as the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. struggle and the new deal's supreme court program.

Mrs. James Morris, chairman of the committee on rehabilitation, reported to the convention that more than $1,000,000 was spent last year on rehabilitation.

Vice presidents chosen included:

Central division—Mrs. Louis J. Lemstra, of Clinton, Ind.

Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn, of Versailles, Ky., was elected American vice president of FIDAC.

Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, of Cincinnati, first national president of the auxiliary, was installing officer.

PROSPECT RESIDENT DIES AT PHARISBURG

Mrs. Emma Almendinger, 80, Passes Away at Daughter's Home; Funeral Friday.

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Sept. 23—Mrs. Emma Almendinger, 80, of Prospect died yesterday noon at the home of a daughter, Mrs. John Kilfen of Pharisburg, where she had gone only a few days ago. Death was caused by paralysis.

She was born June 15, 1857, in Waldo township. She was married Oct. 29, 1880, to Lewis Almendinger, who died 20 years ago. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Kilfen of Pharisburg and Mrs. Harvey Lust of Marion, and a son, Dan Almendinger of Marion.

The body will be taken to her home in Prospect today at 5 p. m. and may be viewed there until funeral time. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the home and burial will be made in Prospect cemetery.

SALVATION IS TOPIC OF REVIVAL TALK

"How a Jailer Got Saved," was the subject of the revival sermon presented last night at the Fite Memorial Baptist church by Rev. H. M. Palmer. The text used was Acts 16:26-40. "This is one time when an earthquake and the fear of God brought a man to Christ. This man realized he was a sinner as men the world over need to be brought face to face with their sinful condition.

"The jailer had a sense of the danger to which he was exposed. Everyone living in sin is under the condemnation of God. To this man salvation was the most important thing of the moment. Paul spoke unto him the word of the Lord, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ.' The man was saved and you can be saved the same way."

Tonight's sermon topic will be, "The Folly of the Unbelief." The men's chorus of the United Brethren church will sing. "Sin! Sin! The Tragedy of the Universe," will be the Friday night sermon topic.

SECRETARY PERKINS SNUBBED BY A. F. L.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—For the first time in history the American Federation of Labor has failed to invite the secretary of labor to address its annual convention.

Secretary Perkins, who has spoken at the last four A. F. L. meetings, indicated last week she was willing to attend the one next month. Labor men regarded the dropping of her name from the list of invited speakers as evidence of A. F. L. displeasure over her attitude in the federation's dispute with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The federation released its list yesterday without comment. It included Chairman J. Warren Madden of the labor relations board, despite earlier reports that neither he nor Miss Perkins would be invited.

FRISCO FIREMEN FIGHT OIL BLAZE

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23—Fed by explosions of huge oil drums and streams of flaming liquid, a spectacular oil fire in the industrial section defied efforts of almost the entire San Francisco fire department for more than five hours last night and early today.

Thirty-eight of the city's 49 engine companies fought the roaring flames in the Standard Oil Co.'s storage plant while explosions shook the ground like a series of earthquakes, before the blaze was brought under control.

Blazing oil gushers and flying sparks endangered industrial plants and business structures over a wide area. Company officials said damage probably would not exceed $100,000.

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Sept. 23—Most wool houses showed a waiting attitude today. Principal buyers for the large mills were not in the market for raw wool and because of this fact little wool was pushed for sale. The few buyers had low price ideas and most houses were not considering bids.
An occasional lot of original bag wool was reported moved under the general range of asking prices, but volume was believed by the trade to be small.

BEARS REGAIN GRIP ON STOCKS

Losses Up to Two Points Whittled Down but Minus Signs Predominate.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 23—Traders fired a few rallying volleys in today's stock market but these, on the whole, failed to intimidate selling forces to any great extent.
Early losses of fractions to two points were reduced or cancelled in many instances near the fourth hour, and there were a number of modest advances in evidence. Minus signs, though, predominated.
The list was notably "thin," as in past recent sessions, and it was not uncommon for leaders to move up or down one or two points on a single sale.
For the most part, buying stimulation was lacking in the overnight news. America's sharp note to Japan on the Nanking bombing was believed by some to presage imminent application of the neutrality act which would tend to further whittle down commerce with the far east.
Bonds were inclined to skid. Corn and wheat futures pushed higher.
Slipping tendencies were shown the greater part of the day by Wheeling Steel, National Steel, American Steel Foundries, Crucible, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, International Harvester, Western Union, American Telephone, General Motors, Westinghouse, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were narrow.
Yellow Truck and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit fell back as labor troubles confronted both companies.
While freight loadings last week were believed to have stepped up to a new peak for the year, net operating income of the first six roads to report for August was off 11.7 per cent from the same month a year ago, with gross revenues up 1.5 per cent.
Utilities were unresponsive to action of the administration in calling a halt in PWA financing of heavy construction, thus reviving hopes the government's power building program may undergo a change.

FLOOD PROJECTS TO BE APPROVED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Ohio river flood control projects estimated to cost $6,000,000 were included for approval today by army engineers. All would be located in communities paying the cost of land, easements and rights of way; however, engineers asserted, there are no federal funds available for that purpose. Work could be started immediately on completion of engineers' preliminary surveys.

LEADER OF "WHITE RUSSIANS" MISSING

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Sept. 23—Gen. Eugene de Miller, leader of the now mythical "white army" of Russia, was reported today to have vanished after a mysterious rendezvous which the aging czarist himself suspected as a possible trap.
The case was given a broader aspect shortly after the first report when the family of a former Russian general, linked vaguely in the affair by a note de Miller had left, reported that he also had dropped from sight.
The twin disappearances were veiled by a dark aura of international intrigue. Police telegraphed all frontier posts and provincial stations to keep a watch for de Miller, fearing he had been abducted.

PLANS REVEALED FOR NEW OHIO WATERWAY

Lake to River Route in Eastern Part of State Outlined by Engineers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — The war department disclosed details today of the long-proposed waterway from Lake Erie to the Ohio river canal, which district and division army engineers recommended at an estimated cost of $179,000,000.
Heavy shipments of iron from the lake regions could pass over the route to the Youngstown and Pittsburgh steel centers, as well as coal cargoes in the opposite direction.
The approved plan, Lieut.-Col. R. A. Wheeler of the army engineers said, would permit vessels of nine-foot draught to use the canal.
The favorable report came for a 110-mile route joining the lake a few miles west of Ashtabula, in northeastern Ohio, and the river terminus near Beaver, Pa.
While congress already has authorized the canal subject to approval of the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, funds have not been appropriated. Army engineers said the board would make "a thorough engineering and economic" study of the report from the field before a final report to congress.

DAVEY AND FERGUSON CLASH OVER PATROL

Governor Says Troopers Were Sent to Legion Parade To Uphold Ohio Glory.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—Gov. Martin L. Davey threw down the gauntlet today before State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson in their controversy over payment of highway patrolmen's expenses on out of the state trips.
Saying he "didn't want Ohio to be a piker in that wonderful parade," the governor asserted he ordered 28 patrolmen to New York this week to lead the Ohio delegation in the American Legion convention parade.
The governor declared the auditor could have a court test of whether the state should pay the bill and also whether it should pay the expense of two patrolmen who accompanied the governor on a recent vacation to North Carolina.
Ferguson said Saturday that he had refused to pay the patrolmen's bills on the vacation jaunt.
Of the Legion convention trip, Gov. Davey said, "as far as I am concerned the state will pay the bill and if Mr. Ferguson has any contrary thoughts, he will test it out in the courts."
The patrol superintendent, Col. Lynn Black, had said that the Ohio Legion promised to pay the patrolmen's expense to New York out of an emergency $3,000 appropriation from the state emergency board for sending a band to the convention.

40 ET 8 TRAIN DUE HOME TOMORROW

Marion's 40 et 8 train in which a group traveled to the American Legion national convention in New York is on its way back and will arrive here some time Friday, according to a telegram received today by D. J. MacDonald of 176 Chicago avenue. The word came from the Marion travelers at Suffern, N. Y., and said the party will pass through Buffalo on the return trip.

PENALTY MRS. HAHN FACES UNCERTAIN

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23—Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt denied today that he would forego a demand for the death penalty when Mrs. Anna Hahn is brought to trial Oct. 11 on a charge of murder in the deaths of two elderly acquaintances.
"I am not ready to say what the state will do," said Outcalt who yesterday was quoted as saying "Ohio never has electrocuted a woman."
Reminded that Assistant Prosecutor Gordon H. Sherer said the state would ask the death penalty for Mrs. Hahn, Outcalt observed "I never said that," but declined to commit himself further.

RELIEF PROGRAM TO BE READY SOON

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—The joint legislative relief committee said today it expected to have a program ready for presentation to a special session of the assembly within two weeks but Gov. Martin L. Davey, who had said he expected to call the session early in October, announced he had not decided yet on a date.
Among developments in the program at a weekly meeting were decisions to require local matching of state funds and to place the dispensing of relief in charge of the state welfare department, with a relief director in charge. A three-member board administered relief under the program which became inoperative April 15 when the state handed the problem back to the local subdivisions.

TOWNSEND CLUB TALKS SCHEDULED

E. L. Knight of Kenton, supervisor of Townsend clubs in the Eighth Congressional district, will speak tomorrow night at a public meeting of the Marion club at the courthouse in common pleas courtroom. He will speak Saturday night on the public square at Caledonia. Both meetings will start at 7:30.
T. A. O'Leary, official of the Marion club, announced that Dr. Francis E. Townsend, founder of the movement, will be in Fremont at 2:30 p. m. Sunday for an address and that several Marion residents are planning to attend.

SEPTEMBER CORN RECEDES AT CLOSE

1,386,000 Bushels in Uncompleted Contracts With Three Days Remaining.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 23—A reduction of 1,386,000 bushels in uncompleted September contracts was announced today, and although prices during most of the day averaged moderately higher, the close for September was ¾@⅞ cent a bushel net lower.
The total open interest in September corn was 8,839,000 bushels, and there remained three trading days yet to even up September corn accounts without physical deliveries. No notices were given today that any tenders of such deliveries on September contracts would be made tomorrow.
At the close, the corn market as a whole was ⅛ cent lower to ⅝ higher compared with yesterday's finish. Sept. 1.12@12⅛, Dec. 65⅝, wheat 1 cent to 2¼ up, Sept. 1.07⅝, Dec. 1.07¼@⅜, May 1.08⅜@½, and oats ⅝ off to ⅛ up.

MEMORY EXPERT PERFORMS HERE

Walter Page Filling Engagement At Rucyrus Last Night.

Walter Page, 29-year-old Evansville, Ind., memory expert and magician, is in Marion appearing before fraternal and civic organizations, demonstrating the skill that won him recognition in Robert L. Ripley's believe-it-or-not cartoons. Page, who came here early this week as a ballyhoo agent for a Cincinnati mail company, last night entertained members of the Eagles' and Elks' organizations at Bucyrus.
The feat which won him Ripley's attention was reciting the names and numbers of 75 box cars, after he had seen them flash past on a moving freight. By knowing the date and year of any event since the birth of Christ, Page claims to be able to tell in one second what day of the week the event occurred.
Today Page was to be in Mansfield, appearing before several service clubs, returning to Marion tonight. He presents in his half-hour public appearance, tricks of magic and several of his memory feats. Page was born in Charlotte, N. C. and began his unique career when he followed it as a hobby after hearing a memory expert on a chautauqua stage. While in Marion he is associated with the Merchants Transfer & Storage Co. at 130 East Mill street.

COOKING SCHOOL IN ITS FINAL SESSIONS

Closing Demonstrations at Star Auditorium Tonight; 625 Attend Opening.

Larger crowds than the estimated 625 persons who attended the opening session yesterday of the Marion Reserve Power Co.'s all electric cooking school in The Star auditorium were anticipated for the closing sessions today at 2:15 and 7:15 p. m.
One of the highlights this afternoon was the demonstration given by Miss Gratia Griffis of Chicago, a talented economist who has been blind since birth.
Miss Griffis will give a second demonstration tonight at the close of the regular demonstration given by Miss Viola Decker of Chicago, one of the country's leading economists.
This afternoon Miss Decker prepared an oven meal consisting of frosted banana cocktail, corned beef patties, Illinois succotash, stuffed celery salad and cherry upside down cake, and a luncheon of curried dried beef and noodles, all-in-one salad, Connie's French dressing and chilled fruit pudding.
In addition to preparing the various dishes on the two menus Miss Decker talked to the audience on broiling and vegetable cookery, explaining the fine points of each.
Those who attend tonight will see Miss Decker prepare an oven meal consisting of mushroom veal loaf, Creole beans, potatoes au gratin, orange nut bread and apples Marie, and a variety of dishes including hot potato salad with frankfurters, southern sherbet, royal sponge roll with honey icing, and broiled frankfurters and sauerkraut, and will hear suggested children's menus.
The auditorium doors will open tonight at 6:45 to give patrons an opportunity to inspect the various displays.

DEATH CLAIMS WILLIAM H. DEE

Former Marion Man, Well Known in Sports Circles, Dies in North Carolina.

William H. Dee, 55, of Winston-Salem, N. C., former resident of Marion, died of a heart attack last night at his home, relatives here were notified this morning.
Mr. Dee was master mechanic for the Norfolk & Western Railroad at Winston-Salem.
He suffered a heart attack six weeks ago while playing golf, but after being under a physician's care for four weeks, had returned to his work.
Mr. Dee, who left Marion 33 years ago, was born here Sept. 22, 1882, the son of John L. and Alice Flaherty Dee. His father was a native of Pennsylvania and his mother was born at Marietta.
He was well-known in Marion sports circles during his youth here, having been a catcher and later manager of the "Red Clippers," probably the best known juvenile baseball team in Marion's history. He left Marion when he was 22 years old. He was married to Hazel Wallace of Bellefontaine, in 1911. His wife, three children, Barbara, Ned and Marion, all at home, two sisters, Mrs. James A. Cleary of 218 East Fairing street, and Mrs. Roy D. Phillians of Mansfield, three brothers, M. J. Dee of Los Angeles, Calif., J. A. Dee of Columbus and Edwin C. Dee of 501 South Vine street, and his mother, Mrs. Alice Dee of Marion, survive.
The funeral cortege will arrive in Columbus at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and the body will be brought here to the L. A. Axe funeral home on East Church street. Services will be held from the St. Mary Catholic church at 9 a. m. Saturday. Friends may view the body at the funeral home until time for the services.

CINCINNATI MAN PUT ON U. S. BENCH

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23—Beclouded with the congratulations of friends, Common Pleas Judge John H. Druffel prepared today to assume his new post as third judge in the southern Ohio district federal court.
The appointment was announced late yesterday as President Roosevelt left Washington on a two-weeks tour of the west.
"Needless to say, I'm greatly honored and pleased," Druffel said, adding he probably would resign from the common pleas bench "as soon as I talk with Gov. (Martin L.) Davey."

THREE YOUTHS FACE CHARGES AT KENTON

Two Car Thefts Charged Against Bellefontaine Trio: Hearings Set for Today.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Sept. 28—Doyle Vance, 17, Harold Cerow, 17, and William Ringler, 18, of Bellefontaine were returned to Kenton Wednesday evening to face automobile-larceny charges after their arrest in Chillicothe in the car of Frank Schindewolf, Kenton funeral director.

Sheriff Lloyd Norman said that the three abandoned a car belonging to the Body Motor Sales of Bellefontaine, south of here, late Tuesday night; came to Kenton and forced the garage door at the Schindewolf funeral home where they stole the new model seven-passenger sedan. In their escape they stopped at Mt. Victory and aroused Elwood Levan for some gasoline, then drove away without paying for the 12 gallons of fuel he pumped into the tank. Levan said the car was equipped with dealer's tags which later were found to be the ones from the abandoned Body Motor Sales automobile.

Hearings will be held late today for the three youthful criminals.

LICENSE SALE MOVES SLOWLY

All Drivers Must Renew Permits by Oct. 1, Registrar Warns.

More than 10,000 motorists in Marion and its outskirts must buy drivers' licenses within the next week or risk being arrested.

Ae Frank West, registrar of motor vehicles for Ohio, sounded a warning in Columbus today that approximately 500,000 Ohio motorists must get licenses before Oct. 1, a checkup here showed only 2,000 of the 12,000 persons who obtained licenses last year have renewed them to date.

M. E. Baldwin, deputy registrar for Marion, said the sale has been progressing "slowly" in the last two days, and that unless motorists act promptly long waiting lines during the last few days of the sale are inevitable. At this time last year 8,500 persons had bought licenses as compared with the 2,000 sold to date this year.

Licenses must be bought in the county in which the motorist resides. Deputy registrars in Marion county are located at Marion, Caledonia, Waldo, Prospect, Green Camp, LaRue and Morral.

In Marion, the Marion Auto club office is open to sell licenses from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily and next week will remain open until 8 p. m.

The new licenses, which cost 40 cents and are issued by 700 deputy registrars over the state, must be possessed by any person operating a motor vehicle after Sept. 30, the state registrar said. The maximum penalty for driving without a license is a $500 fine or 30 days in jail.

West estimated that more than 2,000,000 motorists had obtained permits since they went on sale early this month. The total permits issued is expected to exceed last year's figure.

The state's 25 cents share of the license costs, which amounted to $700,000 last year, is used for administration of the bureau of motor vehicles and for highway improvements.

Registrar West pointed out that the penalty for giving false information when applying for a license is a prison sentence of one to ten years. The bureau keeps records of the convictions of motorists in courts of record for traffic law violations, except parking, and felonies, and can use them to check against the information given by the licensee.

AS JAPANESE BOMBS RAINED DEATH ON CHINA!

Death and destruction rained on the terror-stricken Tsangchow area in China as repeated raids by Japanese bombers left huge districts in shambles. This graphic photo shows the smoking ruins in the residential district where incendiary bombs started fires which added to the terrors of the situation. At Nanking the American embassy was forced to evacuate the U. S. headquarters during attacks which followed a sudden aerial thrust at Canton, the third major Chinese port to be raided.

When regular airplane service is established between San Francisco and Auckland, New Zealand, the flying boats will cover the distance in four days, compared with 19 for the swiftest steamships.

TO KEEP YOU SAFE—
SOHIO "LOOKS FOR TROUBLE!"

"Your Careful Checking Probably Saved Me from a Serious Accident!"

"Lifesaving is not confined to chesty lifeguards or firemen. The thoroughness with which a SOHIOAN carefully checked over my car recently probably saved me from a serious accident. In checking my tires, he noticed that my right front wheel was about to come off—this happened when I was getting ready for a hurry-up trip over a busy highway. I hate to think of the consequences had his sharp trained eye failed to notice the danger."

SCHOOL JOBS LISTED BY PWA

Five Nearby Counties Share Government Projects Costing Total of $834,826.

Five of the six counties surrounding Marion the federal Public Works administration has poured $[illegible]25 for school construction projects, according to figures made public today by the state PWA office at Columbus. The projects, many of which have been completed or are under way, have an estimated total cost of $834,826.

Thus far the PWA has not participated in school construction work in Marion or Morrow counties, according to the report.

Figures for nearby counties follow:

Wyandot, three schools with cost of $176,400 of which PWA granted $73,380—Upper Sandusky school, completed, PWA grant of $51,750, total cost of $115,000; Salem township school, completed, PWA grant of $12,600, total cost $28,000; Eden township auditorium and gymnasium, PWA grant of $15,030, total cost of $33,400, under construction.

Union county, one school at Plain City, PWA grant of $72,000, total cost of $160,000, under construction.

Hardin county—four schools, PWA grants of $106,939, total costs of $395,634: Blanchard school, PWA grant of $20,454, cost of $45,454, completed; Forest school, PWA grant of $45,000, total cost of $100,000, completed; Roundhead school, PWA grant of $43,485, total cost of $96,635, under construction; McGuffey-McDonald school, no grant yet, total cost of $154,545, authorized.

Crawford county — one school, Lykens township, PWA grant of $30,506, total cost of $67,792, under construction.

Delaware county—three schools, PWA grants of $73,800, total costs of $164,000: Ashley school, PWA grant of $29,500, cost of $65,000, under construction; Ostrander school, PWA grant of $27,000, total cost of $60,000, under construction; Brown township school, PWA grant of $17,550, total cost $39,000, under construction.

In Ohio, according to the report issued by L. A. Boulay, state director, there have been 213 school projects built, including 259 buildings, 1,203 classrooms and facilities for 48,342 students and costing $21,420,421. Of this amount the federal government contributed $9,158,702 in grants and $993,000 in loans, the balance being provided by local communities.

Ohio is fourth in the list of states in school projects, being exceeded only by Pennsylvania with 270, California with 266 and Texas with 257.

Forty-six additional school projects have been authorized for Ohio, consisting of replacement and reconditioning of fire-threatened or over-crowded buildings.

$539,529 PAID IN JUNE TAXES

Official Figures on Realty Payments Announced by County Treasurer.

Missing his prediction made several months ago by less than $900, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole today announced the exact total of real estate tax payments in the collection closed recently was $539,529.62. He had predicted the total would be "about $540,000" before the collection started.

The tax books are now ready for the county auditor for computation of the distribution of the money to the various subdivisions. It is expected the settlement will be made in about a month.

The collection brings to $1,113,902.99 the total for the year. During the first half of the year $573,373.37 was paid. Officials regard the collection just closed as good in comparison with last half collections of recent years. During the last half last year the total was only $493,000.

Of the $539,529.62 total, the city paid $377,726.19 and the rural areas $161,803.43.

In the city there was $350,405.18 in general realty taxes and $22,321.01 in special assessment taxes. In the rural areas, general payments were $140,186.62 and special assessment payments $21,616.80.

Of the collection as a whole, the general payments totaled $490,591.81 and specials $48,937.81.

Mr. Cole also announced that receipts are now being prepared for the last half of the year personal property tax collection and will be ready in about a week. Notices will soon be mailed to all taxpayers who may pay immediately after receiving notifiction, he said.

FUGITIVE CONVICTS MAY HAVE $20,000

wounded, an hour and a half after the spectacular dash.

Federal agents led the hunt. Police radios blared warnings. Gasoline stations and highways were watched. Detectives were stationed at the haunts they frequented here when three Cleveland banks were robbed over a period of several months. The last, in July, brought their capture.

Oppose Going to Alcatraz

"We're not going to go to Alcatraz," Widmer snapped to a deputy who warned them against their attempt.

The three had whipped out three revolvers and a knife.

Charles Bird, en route back to his cell after receiving visitors, led the uprising and forced two deputies to open cells of the other two. They stopped long enough to free Slapik.

On their way out, they cornered five other deputies, lining three up facing a wall. To one, Emil Harper, Charles Bird said:

"If you don't stop turning around I'll shoot you deader than a dog."

They emerged from the jail, only a few hundred feet from central police station, forced a motorist out of his parked automobile and sped farther downtown.

The trail picked up and lost several times, led 15 miles. The quartet stopped long enough to force Municipal Judge Louis Petrash from his automobile and abandon their first car. Weaving in and out of traffic, they struck Mrs. Bertha Tober, 46, throwing her against a steel safety zone post. She suffered numerous fractures and internal injuries. A blood transfusion was necessary.

Wreck Judge's Auto

The men backtracked into the city's east side and wrecked Judge Petrash's automobile against a safety zone stanchion. They seized another machine, turned into a side street and abandoned it. Slapik separated from the three and was captured in a children's play tent in a nearby yard.

There the trail was lost. Police watched for two black sedans (Chevrolets), one rented by Charles' wife before she visited the jail yesterday, and the other belonging to a brother of the convicts.

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said every precaution had been taken to guard the prisoners, and that their only visitors were wives of the two Bird brothers and Miss Lou Hemley, Widmar's sweetheart.

Mrs. Frank Bird and Miss Hemley called at the jail Tuesday, as said. The sheriff declared that guns used in the escape could have been carried to the men in a woman's purse.

Explaining the disappearance of his companions, Slapik said they left the car on the east side when they thought the chase was over. Two went in one direction and the third in another. He said, adding that he returned to the car and drove away after wandering around for a few minutes.

Slapik was arrested in Detroit last month and was awaiting grand jury action on first degree murder charges in connection with the fatal shooting of special Policeman Laurence Krall when three men held up a Cleveland sandwich shop.

Roosevelt Feels Pulse of Public on Western Trip

First Brief Speech To Be Made at Cheyenne, Home of Court Bill Foe.

By The Associated Press

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO SEATTLE, Sept. 23—President Roosevelt, bound on a cross-country tour that may bring vital decisions as to future administration policy, lolled back in his private car and enjoyed the scenery today as his train sped through the midwest toward Seattle.

His special train arrived in Chicago at 10:25 a. m. (Eastern Standard time) today.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Gov. Henry Horner and Democratic National Committeeman P. A. Nash greeted the chief executive.

The train was scheduled to remain in the city for about an hour and a half while it was switched to the outgoing tracks of a western rail system.

No stops except for switching and servicing the campaign-like 10-car special were planned until tomorrow when the President will make his first rear platform appearance at Cheyenne, home of Sen. O'Mahoney, one of the chief Democratic opponents of the supreme court reorganization proposal.

A little later in the day he will make another appearance at Wendover, Wyo. He will top off the day with an hour's stop at Casper, home of Sen. Schwartz, a Democratic proponent of the President's court plan. He expects to take a drive in that city.

Although several informal speeches will be made on the 6,000-mile journey, the President himself has described the trip as one on which there will be more "intake" than "out go"—in other words, more listening to ascertain the trend of current thinking among the people.

It is on what he hears then, observers agree, that may bring decisions whether he will call a special session of congress, and whether he will continue to fight for his broad social and economic objectives with or without further judicial reform.

Meanwhile, attaches said the President was looking forward to the scenic pleasures of his journey—especially in Yellowstone National park, around the great northwest dams, the Washington state peninsula, and on the trip across Puget Sound to Victoria, British Columbia.

Hundreds of miles will be covered by motor on these excursions, while the trip to Victoria will be made on the destroyer Phelps.

MOVE FOR OFF-YEAR G.O.P. PARLEY GROWS

Iowan's Plea for Convention Wins Support of Executive Committee Leaders.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—A powerful movement for an off-year Republican convention developed today at a meeting of the party's national executive committee.

The move, led by Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa member of the committee, gained the support of several of the foremost members including Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, R. B. Creager of Texas, Daniel E. Pomeroy of New Jersey and others.

At the same time opposition developed from Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, floor leader for Gov. Landon at the last national convention.

Spangler entered the meeting prepared to fight for the interim meeting. He said the proposal by former President Hoover to hold such a convention had "met with an extraordinary response."

Asserting the demand for such a gathering came not only from party leaders but from the rank and file, Spangler described it as "a real grassroots movement" which he said sprang "from the general and sincere concern of the people over the attempts being made by the present administration to destroy our American form of government based upon liberty."

The Iowan presented to the executive committee a poll of 11,000 officers of Republican clubs and other party organizations showing 94 per cent in favor of a meeting to draft a "declaration of fundamental principles."

He asked the immediate creation of a planning committee of 25 or 100, leading Republicans including such men as Hoover, Landon, Frank O. Lowden, Sen. Borah, Col. Frank Knox and Sen. Vandenberg to work up the declaration of principles.

Under his plan the national committee would call the convention for next spring. Invited would be Republican candidates, national, state and local organization leaders, young Republican club representatives and Republican spokesmen for agriculture and labor.

Action, approving the convention plan said he did not see how such a meeting could be helpful in any manner, unless it could be "actually run as local affairs."

BISHOPS' TALKS LAUNCH CHURCH CAMPAIGN HERE

"We are not going forward with Christ tonight and slide back tomorrow; we must go forward with Christ in the days which are to come.

"Days of thought and hours of prayer have been poured into this program," he said. "Whether we like the world or not it is the only world in which we have to serve God and if we cannot make anything out of this world we will have to face God and say we were unprofitable servants."

Must Face Reality

"If the church of the living God is going to meet this age she cannot meet it with a misplaced emphasis," he warned. "She must come to grips with reality, dare to look things in the face as they are."

Bishop Stamm spoke briefly on elements that come into the church out of the world, which call directly to the challenge. He spoke of the world as finding it increasingly difficult to live in the framework of its own building. "Our world has erected a magnificent building, a marvelous house, beautiful to look at, attractive to many points of view, erected through wide observation. It is not a house that has sprung up overnight. It is the result of progress, part of an era of unprecedented scientific insight and understanding and developing. We are in a scientific world and we don't want to live in any other, and a mere denouncement of science is an indictment of ourselves," he said. "This house of science is not a house of falsehood. It is built upon the truth.

He called for a great crusade today to make the world a place for spiritual living. Much of the trouble today Bishop Stamm laid to the World war. "What our world lacks is not contacts, relationships, but the forthcoming of reconciliation and unless some power of reconciliation is forthcoming, our world is headed for disaster," he warned.

World's Burdens

The world is burdened with the debt of the World war, a debt which reaches into almost every American home, he said it is burdened with the sorrow of the World war hopelessness, fear, hate, with a sense of something better but no power with which to reach it. The world is confused and seriously concerned about itself, wondering if there is anything in it but change and decay whether there is any place to find stability and nobility, he said.

"We have wakened up to see a particularly devilish world without a soul and the cry is, 'Can you make us sure of God'," he averred. Speaking of the world's search for "the abundant life," the bishop said the abundant life "is not things and the world knows it."

"The world today is no longer largely moved by principle, law, by a code, but is challenged by personalities," he declared, pointing to the Germans and Hitler, the Italians and Mussolini, the Russians and Stalin "and in our own country you see it emerging more and more, the influence and challenge of personality."

"Following a person at the neglect of principle may mean the loss of liberty personal rights and personal privileges," he said.

"May not the answer to the cry of our world be indicated in the very mood of the world today?" he questioned. 'A leader who can lead all nations out of sin, into light! Let us name him!" he challenged in closing.

Accepts Challenge

Bishop Stauffacher, who brought greetings from the conferences already visited, accepted the challenge and in stirring words offered Jesus Christ as "the savior who saves to the uttermost," who changes men, society and the whole world. The tasks which lie ahead, he said are to change human nature to make Christ-like characters and to reconstruct society. Christianize the social order.

"When we solve the sin problem we will have made a large contribution to the solution of every other problem," he said. "Until Jesus Christ transforms human hearts, makes them new, there will be no hope for the transforming of society."

Bishop Stauffacher pledged for a renewal of the consciousness of sin and for the realization of Jesus Christ. "This is the time to turn defeat into victory," he said in closing.

Evangelism Defined

In opening his talk this morning on "Current Methods of Evangelism," Bishop Stauffacher first defined evangelism as "bringing Christ to men and men to Christ," and Christian education as "men trained in the following of the Christ." Methods of evangelism are determined by the actuating motives, he said, naming fear and enthusiasm, admiration and devotion to Christ. "The biggest business in the world is winning men to Christ," the bishop said, "hence the methods must be the best possible." Methods suggested were mass evangelism, which he criticized not in its methods but its abuses of which it must be purged, personal evangelism which he defined as "face-to-face" personal contacts "which are rich in possibilities," letter writing and bulletin boards which are a form of silent evangelism, prayer and testimony.

"If we have a passion for religion we will find a method," he said.

Bishop Stamm's address on "Giving the Invitation and Guiding Inquirers," was in the form of a lesson study. A careful approach must be made to every life and the background of the person seeking Christ must be taken into consideration, he said. For the invitation he advised a carefully selected time and place, specifically, all public worship services, the Forward With Christ revival, the organizations of the church, pastoral visits and through guidance. Through guidance, he said, a person is led to personal relationship with God.

Go to Detroit

Immediately following their addresses, which followed the opening meditation and prayer service the bishops left for Detroit. Their places were taken by Bishops Epp and Praetorius.

Rev. H. V. Summers of Canton, superintendent of the eastern district, presided this morning. Rev. E. E. Nieux of Akron conducted the prayer and meditation period, on the theme, 'Following on to Know," which was in close alliance with the "Farther with Christ" theme.

Rev. W. L. Bollman of Cleveland addressed the group on "The Minister and His Own Soul," in which he said the cry of the pulpit is for "a preacher with a soul." Some of the elements which enter into Atrophy of a minister's soul he pointed out as ignorance of mind, insincerity, inconsistency and intolerance. The heart factors in a minister's life matter most in maintaining the spiritual glow," he said, urging ministers to rehearse their call and ordination vows in the midst of "troubling problems, to cultivate sympathy and to guard the glow."

A talk on "The Minister and His Message," by Rev J. R. Niergarth of Cleveland, and a worship period conducted by Rev F. A. Firestone of Bellevue brought the morning session to a close. The minister only preaches "as his passion flames," he said, and the minister must furnish the hearth upon which the truths he preaches are warmed. "There are no great sermons except from the heart," he declared.

Last Night's Program

Rev. R. A. Sain, superintendent of the southern district of which Marion churches are a party, presided last night Rev. P. E Smoke of Ashland led a half-hour devotional period of scripture reading and prayers, after which the Ohio conference men's chorus, under the direction of Rev. W. L. Mullet of Wooster, sang. Preceding the opening of the meeting, Mrs J. W. Baker, organist, and Miss Geraldine Allen, instructor of music at Clyde, O., and daughter of a former Calvary pastor, Rev. C. L. Allen, played organ and piano duos.

Rev. W. L. Bollman of Cleveland, secretary-treasurer of general mission work of the Evangelical church, conducted the commitment service which closed the first session. He spoke of Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Zimmer, Calvary church members who are now in China, as "two who have responded to the challenge and are carrying the message."

Rev. J. W. Heininger, pastor of Calvary church, voiced the welcome of churches of Marion and vicinity to the bishops and the hundreds of visitors. Mrs. Avis Zachman of Calvary church, Miss Pauline Staley of the Greenwood church and Miss Dorothy Latta of the Oakland church, acting as secretaries, directed the visitors who stayed overnight to their hosts.

Among former Marion pastors here for the opening session were Rev. E Radebaugh, who now holds a pastorate near Akron, Rev. H. H Maxwell of Columbus, Rev. H. E. Williamson of Warren and Rev. LeRoy Deininger.

The church was decorated with the Christian flag, hanging from the east balcony, and baskets of garden flowers.

SHARP EXPECTED TO QUIT PAROLE BOARD

Davey's Mention of Two Vacancies Indicates Ravenna Man May Leave.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23—The resignation of Charles Sharp, Ravenna Democrat, from the Ohio parole board was indicated today by Gov. Martin L. Davey in postponing until next week announcement of plans for a parole department reorganization.

The indication came indirectly, the executive saying he wanted common pleas judges to fill both Democratic and Republican vacancies on the board. However, there is no Democratic vacancy, Sharp and Bishop Reverdy Ransom of Xenia filling both positions. The governor said recently he wanted Ransom to remain.

Gov. Davey said he was considering former Common Pleas Judge N. Craig McBride of Hillsboro for the Democratic opening.

He disclosed that former Judge Henry W. Harter of Canton had declined to serve in the place of Leland S. Dougan, Republican dismissed several weeks ago, and that he was considering offering the post to former Judge G. A. Starn of Wooster or Judge Harry W Jewell of Delaware. The only Republican member at present is Charles Haslop of Newark. Judge Harter said he preferred to continue his private law practice.

The governor's recent announcement of an impending reorganization followed an investigation by Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy of charges that release allegedly had been obtained through a "parole broker." Sharp declined comment.

cated along the Marion-Agosta road, three miles west of Marion and including 780 acres.

Absolutely no hunting will be permitted on any of the restricted areas, Neimeyer said.

Every person, regardless of age, must carry a license for hunting, the game protector pointed out. The licenses may be obtained for $1.25, which includes a 25 cent fee, at the office of Clerk of Court Carl F Haberman or at hardware and sporting goods stores throughout the county.

The daily limit, Neimeyer said, is four, with the sale of or barter of squirrel illegal. The season will open Saturday morning and closes Sunday, Oct 10. However hunting is forbidden in Ohio on Sunday and the season will actually end the preceding day, Saturday Oct. 9.

OHIO SUPREME COURT JUDGE IS APPOINTED

will grace the bench of that high tribunal and will render distinguished service to the state."

Judge Gorman, one of the youngest men ever named to the state's highest court, has occupied the Hamilton county common pleas bench since Jan. 1 1935 He was named by former Gov George White to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Thomas H Darby.

By coincidence, he took the oath of office 26 years to the day after his father, Frank M Gorman, ascended the same court.

A native of Hartwell, a Cincinnati suburb, Judge Gorman was married in 1926 to Miss Mary Hartman of Lynchburg, O. They have one son.

Judge Gorman graduated from Harvard Law school in 1920 after a year at the University of Wisconsin during which he was attracted to newspaper work. He served in the navy during the World war enlisting as a seaman and emerging an ensign.

fights overhead. There were no reports of any casualties on either side.

Shells from the Japanese fleet off Haichow, the Kiangsu province port 200 miles north of here, struck the terminal of the Lunghai railway, the trunk road that runs from Haichow across Central China.

The work yards of the newly modernized port were badly damaged.

The Sino-Japanese war ceased on all fronts today as far as the Japanese were concerned—but it was only for 10 minutes. At dawn the quarter of a million Japanese soldiers on the north China and Shanghai fronts paused to pay homage to the emperor as the descendant of the sun goddess.

It was the Japanese autumnal festival in honor of the emperor's imperial ancestors, one of the most sacred of Japanese rituals. While the rain came down in sheets, the soldiers on all fronts dropped their arms and turned their faces reverently toward the imperial palace in Tokyo and renewed their allegiance to the sovereign.

MANSFIELD RADIO STATION PONDERED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — The communications commission heard oral arguments today on the application of Allen T. Simmons to construct a radio station at Mansfield, O.

Simmons asked authority to operate a daytime station on 780 kilocycles. His application was opposed by the Sharon, Pa., Herald, which is seeking to operate a station on the same frequency. A decision in the case will be given later.

DENHARDT LAWYER THREATENED THRICE

Warned "Not To Come Up" to Examining Trial for Carr Brothers.

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Sept. 23—Disclosure that an attorney for Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, victim of one of Kentucky's most sensational slayings, had received three threatening letters heightened interest in the case today.

The disclosure came as this city prepared to pay final respects to a home town boy who became one of the Bluegrass state's outstanding political and military figures, only to die in a hail of bullets fired by the revenge-seeking brothers of the woman the commonwealth alleged Denhardt slew.

Roder K. Myers of Bowling Green, who was with Denhardt when the 61-year-old "stormy petrel" of Kentucky politics was shot down on the Main street in Shelbyville Monday night, revealed he was warned in one note "not to come up."

He expressed belief the veiled threat referred to the examining trial scheduled tomorrow at Shelbyville for the brothers—Jack, Roy and E. S Garr—charged with murder.

"I'll 'go up' Friday, though," Myers said. "Someone might get me, but I'm going."

The attorney said after Denhardt fell mortally wounded, Dr. E S Garr turned his gun on him but Roy Garr prevented his brother from shooting.

The brothers' plea for freedom on bond until their arraignment was denied late yesterday by Shelby County Judge H. F Walters. An attorney has indicated they would claim self-defense.

Following private funeral services this morning for Denhardt, former lieutenant governor and adjutant general of Kentucky, his body was removed to the national guard armory—Denhardt hall—where it lay in state until a mid-afternoon military funeral.

At Shelbyville, Commonwealth's Attorney H. B. Kinsolving Jr., announced he planned to withdraw, necessitating appointment of a special prosecutor to try the Garr brothers.

Kinsolving, who prosecuted Gen. Denhardt last spring, long has been a friend of the Garr family.

IT'S AUTUMN NOW

Official Arrival Set at 6:13 A. M. Today.

Autumn, the season of pigskins, pumpkin pie, sweet cider, Hallowe'eners, leaves changing colors, fall frocks and dad's worrying about getting the coal bin filled for the winter, officially arrived in Marion at 6.13 o'clock this morning.

The first day of autumn's reign was considered as typical fall weather. At 8 a. m. the temperature hovered about the 54-degree mark, but the thermometer climbed steadily and at noon had reached 63, E. H. Raffensperger, official weather observer, reported.

Autumn will remain with us until the start of the winter season Dec 22 With the days continually growing shorter and the thermometer constantly dropping to lower marks, it won't be long until Marionites will be watching the calendar for the number of shopping days until Christmas.

DAVEY WILL SPEAK AT DAM DEDICATION

By The Associated Press

COSHOCTON, O., Sept. 23—Gov. Martin L. Davey was to speak this afternoon at the dedication of the $6,253 071 Mohawk dam, seventh to be completed of 14 reservoirs in the Muskingum watershed conservancy district. A banquet here tonight also was on the program.

The 111-foot high dam, designed to hold water only in flood periods, is 2,300 feet long and located between Coshocton and Mt Vernon in U. S route 36. It is of rolled earth and rock filled with concrete spillway and outlet structures.

DOG TAG SALE HIGH, SHEEP CLAIMS LOW

License Total in County Over 5,500; Dog Warden's Work Praised.

As sale of dog licenses passed the 5,500 mark in the office of County Auditor Harry V. Mountz yesterday, a check-up of sheep claims over a 15-week period shows a sharp drop from last year to this. The number of dog tags sold continues to soar far beyond the record total of 5,264 of last year.

The claims over the period from May 21 to Sept. 11 this year total only $131 as compared with $618 for the corresponding period of last year.

County officials attribute the drop in claims in part to the system inaugurated by County Dog Warden Elmer Ullom of thoroughly investigating all claims, inspecting the dead or wounded sheep closely to determine if the damage actually was done by dogs. Another factor is the vigilance of Mr Ullom in rounding up all stray dogs and impounding them or selling them to interested persons, the county receiving the sale price, officials said.

Mr. Ullom always has disinterested appraisers set a value on the stock which has been damaged and thus the size of the claims is generally lower than it might have been had the stock owners placed the value.

An automatic grinder for sharpening drills quickly has been invented that can be clamped to a work bench.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Spotted Fever.

Rocky Mountain "spotted fever," own as "tick fever," or "black ," is an infection usually con- ed to the western part of the ed States. But within recent nths several cases have been re- ted east of the Rocky moun- s. Health officials have ad- ed that certain precautions ould be taken to guard against a disease in sections where it is been unknown.

The disease is traced to a micro- opic speck, a woodtick which is en a tremendously big name, Dermacentor Andersoni". This ck undoubtedly carries the germ rus responsible for the disease, ansmitted to man by contact.

This insect is usually active dur- g the months from March to ne, but it is not unheard of at her times of the year. It is found waste spaces and uncultivated as. It is especially common on e range and in certain wooded ions of the country.

To prevent the spread of spotted ver it is necessary to destroy the k. Infected cattle should be ped of, sprayed with a suitable iseptic. Of course, this measure safety is all too often neglected il the disease has made itself own through its human victims.

The patient first complains of ght headache, fever and chills s. Severe pain occurs in the uscles, bones and joints. This is pecially intense in the back and ad.

On the third to the fifth day of e attack, a skin rash appears us quickly spreads and may in- ve the entire body. Due to small morrhages into its structure, the in has a mottled appearance.

In a severe case there may be eat restlessness and loss of sleep elirium and unconsciousness some- nes occur. These are bad signs.

In most instances the fever drops adually and in about three weeks e patient appears pretty comfort- le. At about this time peeling of e skin occurs.

Sections of the country known to infested with the tick should avoided if possible. Those who ust work in those areas should dressed and protected against e menace of this pest. If the tick found on the skin, it should be refully removed. Never crush it the skin.

In Ohio History

(From the J. H. Galbraith collection of Ohio histories, written for The Associated Press.)

FIRE DEPARTMENTS

When fire-fighting in Ohio cities was a voluntary service, the fire-fighters suffered most from lack of facilities for getting information about the location and nature of the fire. In one city there was a fire company for each ward. The alarm was hurried to the nearest company hose-house when a fire broke out, and the bell in the tower of the hose-house would be rung. Signals were devised by which a certain number of rings on the bell would give the general location of the fire.

One member of the company would ascend the tower and "spot" the fire, then hurry with his companions to the scene. Other ward companies coming in would be directed by citizens.

Taking the Pulse.

IT'S NO secret that President Roosevelt intends to take the country's pulse on the way to Seattle and back. He wants to reestablish direct contact with the Common People.

His position necessarily places him in isolation, for his own safety. He can see callers only by appointment. The time he can devote to visiting is limited.

Members of his official family are responsible, therefore, for keeping him informed. Unfortunately, they are not in a position to be carriers of bad news, which is the only kind the chief executive needs to know about.

Furthermore, each of them has a special interest to serve. Every president has been the victim of this situation, every political leader from the beginning has been handicapped by it. When King Alfred the Great went among his people in disguise, he was on serious business, not a lark.

So Mr. Roosevelt will be carried clickety-clack over thousands of miles of railroad trackage, stopping to take aboard regional dignitaries to ride to the next stop, making a speech here and there, acknowledging the cheers of the crowds—taking the pulse of the country.

A doctor with leather mittens trying to feel a pulse through a heavy sweater and a woolen undershirt would have a better chance.

Beyond Expectations.

THE theme of the American Legion's 19th convention is that everything's beyond expectations.

The Legion visitors are livelier and more numerous than the metropolis thought they were going to be, which covers a lot of ground.

The traffic jams, the noise, the devilry, the playfulness and the triumph of the carnival spirit are all greater than they were expected to be. On the serious side, Legion interest in national affairs shows no signs of letdown, either.

That "average Legionnaire," who now is 44 years old and the father of a couple of kids in high school, is only about half as old as some of the skeptics said he was getting to be. Aside from a few gray hairs and little bulge above the belt, he still looks like a boy—and he doesn't apologize for his wife, who sets the pace for him.

This is a remarkable situation. Hundreds of years ago Ponce de Leon poked about in this then unexplored country looking for the Fountain of Perpetual Youth. He didn't find it, but a whole generation of Americans seem to have toppled into it after the World war without even looking for it—or maybe they were looking, but didn't mention it.

Birthday Thought.

ON SEPT. 23, in the year 63 B. C., Gaius Octavius was born in Rome. In due time he became first of the Roman emperors, took charge of everything in person, was given the title of Augustus and secured for himself a permanent place in the history books.

He spoke of himself as "master of all things," and he was. When he died, 14 years after the birth of Christ, the empire he had wielded from the ruins of the republic controlled the Mediterranean basin. His influence was felt for many decades, though the glory that was Rome steadily diminished after his death.

This month, Italy will celebrate the birthday of Augustus, in the grand manner. There will be a magnificent exhibition of the art and architecture of the Augustan age. In numerous ways Italians and their neighbors will be made to feel that the Italy of Mussolini and the Italy of Augustus are related.

To make the thing complete, unless there is a revision of plans, Il Duce will put a climax to the birthday by departing for Germany, where, as a "gesture of vitality," he and Adolf Hitler will confer on ways and means of enhancing fascist prestige. Perhaps they even may mention the fact that by crowding the despised "democracies" too far, Italy now finds Great Britain and France grimly cooperating to keep Italy from ruling the Mediterranean.

Augustus had his troubles, but democracies which can be shoved so far and no further weren't among them.

A Breeze.

FOOTBALL FANS had an easy workout over the season's opening week-end. Weather was clear and cool, though the lowest temperature did not begin to be low enough to freeze a toe or an ear.

There was scarcely any congestion worth mentioning. In most cases it was possible to get to a seat and stay in it throughout the game. Excitement was at a minimum, too. As far as is known, not even a radio listener died of acute heart failure after hearing an announcer's thrilling description.

Thus, the fan came out of the opening games without a bruise, a break, a sore throat or a head cold. As they say at the race tracks, it was "a breeze." The rainy Saturday afternoons, the sleet storms, below-freezing temperatures, dense crowds and hysterical moments are still in the future.

Department of Justice Applies Old Statute to Unlawful Picketing, Sit-Down Strikes.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — Any workman who joins with any other workman or anybody else to intimidate or coerce a fellow-employe, whether or not he is a member of a union, may go to jail hereafter if convicted by the federal courts of that offense.

This pronouncement of what constitutes the law of the land has been made possible by the very creditable work of the department of justice, presided over by Attorney General Homer Cummings. In deciding to make use formally of a statute hitherto little known but just as effective today as it was 61 years ago when passed by congress.

The law has been invoked to punish persons engaged in unlawful picketing or "sit-down" strikes. The federal government, in other words, has been given by congress a police power which many people have insisted heretofore belonged only to the states.

The language of the statute is as follows:

"Section 51 (criminal code) conspiracy to injure persons in exercise of civil rights. If two or more persons conspire to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or the laws of the United States...they shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than ten years."

Clearly the Constitution assures a man the right to work, the right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." Article V of the Constitution says that nobody shall "be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." This means that the Constitution guarantees a person against physical violence and the statute quoted contains a direct reference to "any right or privilege secured to him (the citizen) by the Constitution."

Civil Liberties Sacred

Civil liberties are just as sacred whether violated by terrorism applied by employers in Harlan county or by CIO union terrorists in refusing to obey Michigan court injunctions and in intimidating workmen in automobile plants. The department of justice deserves much credit for bringing the old statute into operation again.

Incidentally, the Roosevelt administration will find in the same statute a few clauses that make it virtually mandatory that any known members of the Ku Klux Klan be prosecuted. The statute says:

"If two or more persons go in disguise on the highway, or on the premises of another, with intent to prevent or hinder his free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege so secured (by the Constitution), they shall be fined not more than $5,000 and imprisoned not more than 10 years, and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to any office, or place of honor, profit, or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States."

The above paragraph follows immediately on the section which forbids two or more persons to "injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured by him by the Constitution or the laws of the United States."

The Ku Klux Klan has as its fundamental obligation a conspiracy not exactly to prevent religious freedom or worship as such, but to prevent any Catholic, Jew or Negro from holding governmental office in America. The Constitution says:

"No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

Congress Speaks on Klan

Thus it will be seen that the congress of the United States has already spoken on the subject of what the Klan oath embraces. The federal laws make it a crime for any group to conspire to prevent any citizen from enjoying his constitutional right—in this instance, the right to hold public office, no matter what his race, or creed or color.

It will be noted that the laws of the United States further state that any one convicted of such a crime shall himself be ineligible to hold any public office. This means that members of the Ku Klux Klan, if prosecuted for their offenses, would be ineligible to hold office. Former Senator Black was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. He was, of course, never prosecuted. The language of the statute would seem to indicate that he is morally ineligible to hold office under the government of the United States. He took an oath to deprive his fellow citizens of certain Constitutional rights.

This is entirely apart, of course, from questions of legal ineligibility which have been raised because Mr. Black was a member of the senate at the time the retirement law increasing the emoluments of supreme court justices was passed, whereas the Constitution says no senator or representative can be appointed to any office in which the emoluments have been increased while such a senator or representative was serving his term in congress.

Wants "Dry" India

Aging Mahatma Hopes To Make Prohibition So Effective It Will Be Model for Rest of World.

By United Press

BOMBAY, Sept. 23—Frail, aging Mahatma Gandhi—he will be 67 in October—hopes to achieve before he dies the crowning dream of his life by making India dry.

He believes he can make it so effective that it will be an example to the world, especially to the United States.

"I do not regard the American experiment as a failure," the saint of Indian declared.

"I do not despair of America once more returning to prohibition with still greater vigor, fervor and better experience in dealing with it.

GANDHI

"It may be that if India carries out prohibition it will hasten its return to the United States. But in India it is easier to suppress drink, for only the minority takes alcohol. Drinking is generally considered as not respectable. There are millions who have never known what drink is."

Gandhi's prohibition plan includes both drink and drugs and he believes it can be achieved in the six congress provinces — Madras, Bombay, Central Provinces, Bihar and Orissa—by 1940. This would be three years from the time the first congress ministry took office.

Under the Gandhi dry law, more than 168,000,000 Indians would be deprived of alcohol and narcotics by law. In time, he hopes all India's with its 351,000,000 native population, will be bone dry.

Gandhi considers loss of revenue to the government of no importance compared with the moral good and the increased productive spending power achieved in India.

"Let it be remembered," he said in outlining his plans, "that this drink and drugs revenue is a form of extremely degrading taxation. All taxation to be healthy must return tenfold to the taxpayer in the form of necessary services. Excise makes people pay for their own moral, mental and physical corruption.

"The loss of revenue is only apparent. Removal of a degrading tax enables the drinker—that is, the taxpayer—to earn and spend better. It means a tremendous economic gain for the nation.

Deplores American Example

"The cry of great expenditure in preventing illicit distillation is thoughtless where it is not hypocritical. India is not America. The American example is a hindrance rather than a help to us. In America drinking carries no shame with it. It is the fashion there to drink. It reflects greatest credit on the determined minority in America that by sheer force of its moral weight it was able to carry through the prohibition measure, no matter how short-lived it was."

As well as organizing a special squad to hunt down illicit distilleries, Gandhi would arrest every person found drunk in the streets or in public places and force the offender to work for his bare living under state supervision for a time.

Voluntary women workers would travel the country trying to wean victims from drink and educating all against the evils of alcohol, because Gandhi holds that prohibition is not merely a closing down of grog shops but the education of the nation at the same time.

Europeans Would Be Exempt

Europeans would not be hit by the Gandhi dry law. Foreign liquor would be imported for their use and sold under official certificate in selected areas. Where the European would be touched by prohibition would be in the closing of bars in hotels and restaurants, as the Indian reformer proposes.

Prohibition comes first on Gandhi's list of reforms, but he has two other big problems which he is struggling to solve, one is illiteracy and the other prisons.

He hopes eventually to abolish prisons and turn them into profit-making institutions.

"All jails should be turned into hand-spinning and hand-weaving institutions," Gandhi said.

"Prisoners Are Defectives"

"Cotton-growing should be fostered to provide the finest cloth. I suggest that almost every facility exists for this purpose in the prisons. Only the will has to be there. Prisoners must be treated as defectives, not criminals to be looked down upon.

Gandhi considers that reform of education should not simply tackle illiteracy but set every child to be trained in some craft. He would set up colleges for the instruction of all crafts and sciences and would introduce conscription of teachers whereunder every young man and woman of learning would have to give a number of years, perhaps five, to the education of others at a nominal living wage.

Dinner Stories

A young man walked up to the clerks at the employment exchange. "Is this where you pay out eternity benefit?" he asked.

"My good fellow, I presume you mean maternity benefit, do you not?"

"No, I mean eternity benefit."

"Do you know that eternity means the hereafter?"

"That's right. I'm here after it, ain't I?"—Tit-Bits (London.)

Marked For Guillotine

Indiana Senator Van Nuys Due for Hard Fight Against Democratic "Reprisal" Drive.

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Correspondent.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 23.—Senator Frederick Van Nuys (D) of Indiana, one of the leaders in the fight against President Roosevelt's court proposals, will face the battle of his life to retain his senate seat next year.

For Governor M. Clifford Townsend, an advocate of the court reorganization plan, has attempted to read the senior senator out of the Indiana Democratic party and has thrown the weight of the powerful statehouse machine against the campaign of Van Nuys for renomination.

The chances of Senator Van Nuys are diminished by the fact that Indiana senators are nominated in party conventions. If the primary were still in effect, Van Nuys would have a fighting opportunity to carry his battle before the voters, according to political observers.

Statehouse Machine Powerful.

However, the statehouse machine has prevailed in all factional strife within the Indiana Democratic party for five years, largely because of the potency of patronage in party convention. Van Nuys himself has lost past struggles with the state house forces when the senator backed losing candidates for senator and for governor.

The statehouse group had marked Van Nuys for the guillotine long before President Roosevelt broached his court plan, but the governor has seized upon the anti-court stand as a public reason for opposing the senator.

The governor attempted to read Van Nuys out of the party at a recent meeting of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association at French Lick.

After lieutenants of the governor had circulated word that Samuel Jackson, Fort Wayne attorney, would be the statehouse candidate for senator against Van Nuys, the governor said before the editors:

"The people of our state will not tolerate, in my belief, any one in public office who will not put his shoulders to the wheel and give his earnest support to the President.

"The people of Indiana wish their representatives to uphold the hand of the President, even if these officials doubt the wisdom of some detail of the program.

"And I, as governor, propose he shall have all the support I can afford in all his undertakings for the betterment of mankind."

Van Nuys Aroused by Talk.

Irate at the governor's words, Senator Van Nuys termed the speech "a cowardly attack upon myself, my patriotism and my Democracy."

Van Nuys added that he would make a "fighting campaign for renomination."

Some lieutenants have urged the senior senator to run as an "Independent Democrat," if his party state convention rejects him. In that event, if the Republican party nominates a strong senatorial candidate, chances of the G. O. P. probably will be brighter than at any time since the Democrats swept the state in 1932.

Uncle Sam Forecloses.

The foreclosure of 528 mortgages on real estate in Toledo and Lucas county by the Home Owners Loan Corp. indicates that the depression-time intervention of the federal government to save the equities of many distressed citizens in their homes was only partially successful.

The HOLC foreclosures in this county increased from only two in 1935 to 197 in 1936 and 324 in the first seven months this year.

The delinquencies in payments by the borrowers may be traced to a variety of causes. Some, who never intended to pay, occupied their homes as long as possible and then abandoned the property. Other delinquencies are attributed to death, illness, loss of jobs, intoxicating liquor and to bad luck or mismanagement or misconduct of all kinds. The managers of private money lending agencies know all the good reasons as well as the flimsy excuses for non-payment of installments on due dates. Most private lenders crack down sooner and harder than the government agency does, for Uncle Sam prefers to be lenient and the acquisition of thousands of dwelling houses in all parts of the country creates big problems and heavy responsibilities.—Toledo Blade.

"Look, Ella! That must be the man who won the derby—see, he's wearing it!"

Women's Wealth.

Through inheritance, life insurance and investing, women have acquired title to about half the 15,000,000 corporate shares in the United States, according to an American Magazine article by Isaac F. Marcosson, and they have 65 per cent of the savings banks accounts, 40 per cent of the titles to homes, are beneficiaries of about 80 per cent of the $104,500,000,000 life insurance now in effect, and control 85 per cent of the country's power. Not only is their wealth about equal to that of men, but their proportion of the total, which is estimated at $280,000,000,000, is increasing. About $2,000,000,000 a year is paid on life insurance policies.

There is, of course, a tendency to maintain the balance in the fact that the bequests of women to their children includes their sons, but there is, as always, an inclination to leave more money to daughters. The growing success of women in business is a noteworthy development of the times. Marcosson found that the more conservative nature of women induced them to make investments with regard for the safety of their money, with the result that their holdings weathered the depression more successfully, on the average, than those held by men.—Findlay Republican.

Katherine Questions Madge and Lillian About Gems.

LILLIAN AND I turned startled eyes simultaneously on Katherine as she asked if we minded a few questions concerning Queen Olga's missing emeralds.

"A hundred, if you like," I answered quickly, and Lillian grinned widely.

"I'll raise that to a thousand," she said.

"I'll need less than 10, perhaps only two or three," Katherine said, "and I never would bother you with asking them, only that, because of my nursing experience during the war, I have secured a certain insight into the mental processes of peasant women. I wondered, if I knew more about the affair, if I might not be able to fathom the thoughts and impulses of the old servant, Felice, when death stared her in the face. I have seen many of her kind in similar if some what less dangerous dilemmas."

Lillian turned keen, suddenly intent eyes upon our winsome comrade of so many exciting adventures.

"I've tried to tell you everything we know," she said, "but we may very well have overlooked something. Go ahead with your questionnaire."

When Last Seen.

Katherine leaned back and clasped her hands behind her head.

"Number one!" she said. "Please tell me again when Olga last saw the bag containing her emeralds."

"About five hours before the rescue. Felice, the maid, made her feel them through the cloth of the bag, which was attached to her dress."

"I believe you said Felice was taken away sortly afterward and put into another compartment and that when Olga next saw her she was dead."

"I think Olga believes that now," Lillian said, "but there is a little discrepancy there; that night on the boat she was no sooner safe herself than she inquired for her maid. Olga said she was right behind her. The next instant some men from the gunboat carried the dead body of the maid to the deck, saying that she had seen one of the conspirators springing toward her mistress and had flung herself in front of the bullets."

Memory Muddled.

"A very natural discrepancy," Katherine said, evidently from the wealth of her experience. "Olga's memory for details of that awful night is a bit muddled. I am surprised it is as clear as it is. But she told you, I believe, that she searched the dead woman's clothing and found that the bag had been torn away.

"First torn, then ripped, then torn again," Lillian said.

"Not cut at all?"

"Not cut at all."

"And she was five hours away from her mistress in another compartment, and never had the opportunity to speak to her mistress or signal her during that time?"

"That is correct in every detail."

"Did any one of the conspirators escape alive?"

"Not one."

She considered a minute.

"I remember you told me at the time that one man leaped into the ocean with Dicky and was drowned. Was his body ever recovered?"

"No."

"Could he have been one of the men guarding the servant, Felice?"

Madge Is Certain.

"What do you think, Madge?" Lillian tossed the question to me.

"I am sure he wasn't," I said. "He evidently was a man high in the organization, next in order to the double-crossing commander of the expedition."

"Then, in all probability, the emeralds are not on his body in the bottom of the sea," Katherine said. "It would be everybody for himself in that crowd. A man detailed to guard the women would not have turned over a bag of jewels to anybody else."

Lillian nodded.

"Sound reasoning, Sherlockia!" she said, and Katherine smiled lazily at her.

"Then," she went on, "if the jewels are not at the bottom of the sea, they are not hopelessly lost. Unless—were any of those bodies cremated?"

"No," Lillian said promptly, "I happen to know that they were all buried in potter's field."

"And where are the man that survived?" Katherine asked next.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

WALDO, Sept. 23—The Young Ladies' and Young Men's classes met jointly Friday night at the home of Freda Mae, Charles and Arliss Peak, east of Waldo. Guests were Miss Ruth King, of Greeley, Colo., and James Trefz. The time after business session was spent in practicing for a class play to be given soon. Games and contests were enjoyed. Lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held in October, at the home of Richard Meiley. The name of the play to be given by the class is "For Pete's Sake."

WOODSHED BURNS NEAR CALEDONIA

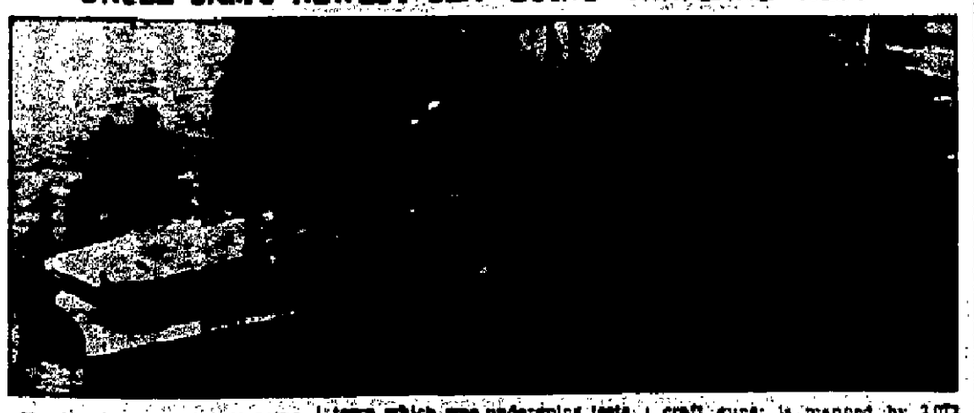
Special to The Star

CALEDONIA, Sept. 23 — Fire destroyed a woodshed and contents on the O. L. Hipsher farm one mile west of Caledonia Tuesday afternoon. The fire was reportedly caused by a lighted match being thrown in the shed. Grover Foos who was passing by noticed the smoke and notified Mrs. Forest Hipsher tenant, who called members of the family working in nearby fields. The Caledonia fire department was called and succeeded in saving the house and other nearby buildings which were badly damaged from the heat. The damage is estimated at approximately $300.

SCHOOL AREA SHIFT ASKED

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 23—The Seneca county board of education has requested the Wyandot county board for the transfer of a small tract of land in Seneca township, Seneca county, to the McCutchenville school district now under Wyandot county jurisdiction.

UNCLE SAM'S NEWEST SEA GOING "AIRPLANE NEST"



Here's the newest sea-going nest for Uncle Sam's navy warbirds—the aircraft carrier Yorktown which was undergoing tests at Rockland, Me. The big boat has a displacement of 19,900 tons, carries a dozen 5-inch anti-aircraft guns; is manned by 2,072 men including fliers, and can do 34 knots. It's the last word, at the moment, in aircraft carriers.

HUNTER FUNERAL RITES SATURDAY

The funeral of A. M. Hunter of 343 Pearl street will be conducted Saturday at 3 p. m. at the C. E. Curtis funeral home on East Center street by Dr. Edward T. Waring, pastor of Epworth M. E. church. Marion Lodge No. 78, F. and A. M. will take part in the service. Burial will be made in the Marion cemetery.

Friends may view the body at the home until 1 p. m. Saturday and at the funeral home from 1:30 until the funeral hour. Mr. Hunter died yesterday morning in the Railway Express office of a self-inflicted wound. He was employed by the company 32 years, the last 17 of which were as cashier.

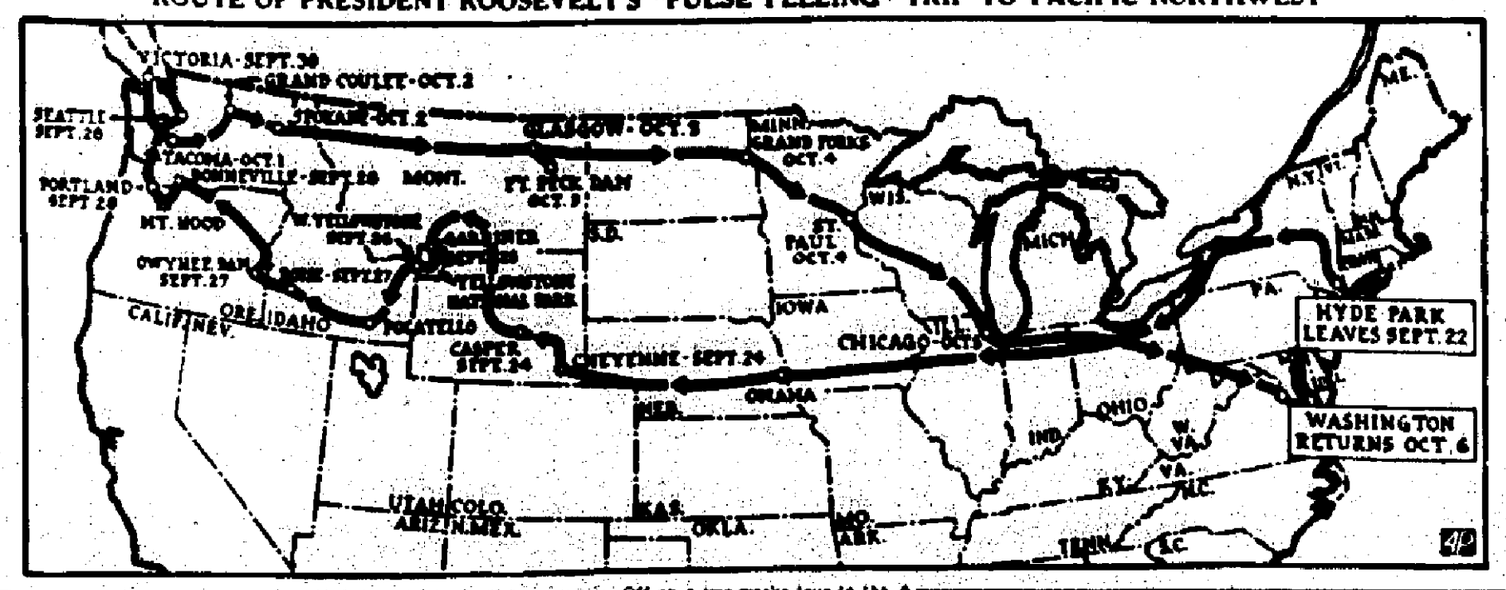
ROUTE OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S "PULSE FEELING" TRIP TO PACIFIC NORTHWEST



Off on a two-weeks tour to the Pacific Northwest, President Roosevelt will travel 6,000 miles before returning to Washington. Political observers say the trip will give the President a chance to feel the public "pulse" toward his legislative program. This Associated Press map shows the itinerary for the journey.

Noted Surgeon Lets His Children Map Own Way

GIRL IN WHITE

Lynn Russell enjoys working in her father's hospital, but the famous surgeon insists he didn't influence her in the choice of a career.

This is one in a series of reports by Miss Shaw, child guidance expert of the Associated Press Feature Service, on the influence of notable parents on their children.

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—"Do I influence my children? I try hard not to. I don't believe in it. Neither do I forbid them to do anything. It only makes them more determined."

These are the views of Dr. Thomas H. Russell as a parent, not as head of the department of surgery at Post-Graduate hospital in New York. He always has tried hard to keep his two roles separate.

"I never talk shop at home," he says in a voice which hasn't quite lost its southern drawl despite years of hospital service in New York.

"I regard medicine as a great calling, but I don't expect my family necessarily to feel as I do. You can't force your interests on others.

One Wears White

Nevertheless Dr. Russell is tremendously pleased because his 20-year-old daughter, Lynn, has taken an interest in the work of his hospital. She volunteered to do some social service work, and now goes proudly about the clinics and wards in her white uniform. However, her father says he would have been just as happy if she had chosen a different career.

"As long as my children have some interest, no matter what it is, I don't worry about them. I encourage them to do what they want to do."

Lee, two years younger than Lynn, is musical. She plays both violin and piano, and largely by ear, too.

Asked whether early childhood was likely to reveal definite inclinations toward a future career, Dr. Russell says:

"Yes, but often unconsciously. In my own case, I never thought of being a doctor until my school principal told me on graduation day that medicine should be my profession.

"Then I recalled that as a child I had spent a lot of time on our North Carolina farm cutting and sewing up animals which were ready for the slaughter house. I'd learned a lot of anatomy right there, though I hadn't realized it."

Gives Credit to Governess

Dr. Russell gives entire credit for the early training of his children to an Irish governess "who did the job better than I could have."

City children need a governess, he says, because they cannot be safely left alone. But he's emphatic on one point—don't interfere when the governess turns disciplinarian.

"You have to put confidence in her," he says, "and then leave her alone. Children need consistent treatment. They'll never learn if the parent rushes to give sympathy just when the governess is administering punishment.

"Do I want my children to profit by my experience?

"Of course," he answers with a kindly smile, "but I know they won't. I can't make their decisions for them. They must make their own. Perhaps they'll be hurt more in the end, but they will have gained something—call it character."

MINISTER'S FATHER HONORED BY LODGE

James M. Roop Made Honorary Member of Marion Odd Fellows.

James M. Roop, 84, father of Rev. Carl V. Roop, pastor of First United Brethren church, was honored last night at a worship service in the church and a meeting in the church community house in which he was made an honorary member of Koseluske lodge of Odd Fellows here.

Although confined to a wheel chair by arthritis, Mr. Roop attended both meetings, and spoke from his chair at the community house.

Odd Fellows and members of Rebekah lodge joined church members in the regular mid-week service at the church before the program at the community house.

Mr. Roop joined the Odd Fellows at Wilshire, O., and served in the offices of the lodge there. He is a former school teacher, having taught at Wilshire Center in Van Wert county and also in Arkansas and Illinois. He was graduated from the old Fostoria normal school and finished college work at Valparaiso, Ind. He makes his home with Rev. Roop.

The men's chorus of the church sank groups of songs at both the church and the community house programs, the leader, B. K. Hill, using a baton made by Mr. Roop, an expert wood carver.

Rev. Roop's sermon subject for the regular midweek service was "True Brotherhood." Speakers in the community house program were Ralph Williamson, Thomas Bolander, Louis Scherff, George Powelson, Rev. Roop and his father. Two songs written by Dennis Gump were sung by Mrs. Lloyd Schiller, accompanied by Mrs. Ray Acker.

COURT NEWS

Bank Sale Approved

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young has approved the sale by liquidators of the Marion Savings bank of several properties held by the closed institution to the Ohio Bureau of Credits on its bid of $6,500. Judge Young stated in his entry the bid was the best and highest offered at the sale last month.

Judge Young also approved the application of liquidators to settle the indebtedness of several persons.

Howard E. Guthery is special counsel for the bank.

License Issued

A marriage license was granted yesterday in probate court to Edward Sievert, salesman of Chicago, and Ilona M. Binkley, nurse of Marion.

Radio control equipment has been designed to be inserted in arm rests beside the rear seats of sedan type automobiles.

When a new ash receiver is fitted ashes and cigaret butts fall into the interior.

CHILD'S CONDITION CONTINUES SERIOUS

Five-year-old Sue Anne Kochensperger, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Kochensperger of 342 Olney avenue, is still in serious condition, attendants at the City hospital reported today. She was taken to the hospital yesterday morning after firemen had worked over her with an inhalator a half hour the previous night during a critical period of her illness. She is afflicted with a throat infection and kidney ailment and the firemen's assistance was credited with bringing her through the crisis.

Bay windows from which crews can watch long freight trains are being installed in cabooses by a large railroad to replace the old style cupolas.

TULIP GARDENS TO GO

By United Press

LATTIMORE, N. C.—The tulip gardens of Gideon Price, begun as a memorial to his son who was killed during the World war and which became famous throughout the South, will be abandoned. Price said "diseased" soil caused him to abandon the gardens.

A machine operated by vacuum has been invented to attach veneers to irregular surfaces without the use of forms and presses.
